Working students learn Vo-Ed Week lauds Beach businesses

By Joe Lowenthal,
Special to the Sun

For it to be successful, vocational education in the public schools requires a partnership among the schools, its students, and the business community. Virginia Beach has a very successful partnership.

Vocational education prepares junior and senior high students, post-secondary school youth, and adults for occupations in agriculture, business and office, marketing and distribution, vocational home economics, trades and industries, health occupations, industrial arts, and technical education.

Vocational classes are taught at each junior and senior high school, as well as at the city's modern Vocational-Technical Education Center on North Landing Road and the newly-developed Career Development Center on Witchduck Road at Chinese Corner. More than 10,600 students participate in vocational education classes at these schools.

Both CDC and Vo-Tech offer evening classes for adults, and many of the seven senior high schools have special interest vocational classes for adults.

Cooperative education

One important part of vocational education is the work-study program in which students learn skills in the classroom and on the job with community businesses. Called "cooperative education," the program provides businesses with a dependable source for recruiting trained employees while qualifying for a Targeted Jobs tax credit. The employer also contributes to the education of the student because part of the student's grade comes from his or her job performance.

There are three cooperative education programs in Virginia Beach Public Schools: cooperative office education (COE), industrial cooperative training (ICT), and marketing and distributive education (M/DE). COE prepares students for office careers, such as stenographer, clerk-typist, receptionist, bookkeeper, file clerk, and secretary, while ICT helps develop trade, industrial, and technical skills. M/DE focuses on marketing, human relations, and communications skills.

Beach business support

Willner's fashions, a member of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, has participated in the M/DE program for several years. General Manager Mark Willner says the DE students he has employed are "Well-trained, hard workers and productive." Many students, he indicated, have gone on to work full time for Willner's in managerial positions. Willner provides an advisory board for student representatives from the fashion merchandizing class at Kempsville High.

Robert A. Cooke of Cooke and Weiss, P.C., an accounting firm and Chamber of Commerce member, said, "The COE program is a very worthwhile endeavor; I have recommended the program to several clients who now have COE students working for their businesses." Cooke recommends businesses to try COE students because "the advantage of the tax credit is justification for any employer."

Max Ward Delmar Photography Studios employs a student under the ICT program. Right now, Albert Davenport from Green Run High works as a paper processing technician, and his supervisor, Bob Hendrickson, says he is pleased with Albert's self-confidence and mature approach toward his job.

The week of Feb. 8-14 has been declared "Vocational Education Week" in the city. Mayor Henry McCoy signed a proclamation "urging all citizens of this great community to visit their local vocational education schools and programs" to see first-hand the benefits such programs provide to the community.

Mayor Henry McCoy signs a proclamation declaring Feb. 8-14 as "Vocational Education" week throughout Virginia Beach. With Mayor McCoy at the signing were the guiding lights of vocational instruction in Virginia Beach Public Schools (from left): William G. Moosha, principal of the Career Development Center; Charles Garland, supervisor of vocational education; Robert J. Parr, supervisor of marketing and distributive education; Jim DeBellis, head of the city's economic development office and also chairman of the school division's vocational education advisory committee; Dr. Mary M. Barber, supervisor of business education; Mrs. Tamara L. Bowyer, supervisor of industrial arts, and Robert B. Eddy, principal of the vocational-technical education center.

COE student Dot Tiley of Kellam High receives office workstudy training with the firm of Cooke & Weiss, P.C., certified public accountants, on Rosemont Road. Dot's supervisor is Robert Cooke. The accounting firm also is a member of the Chamber.

ICT student Albert Davenport of Green Run High works as a paper processing technician at Max Ward Delmar Photography Studios under the direction of "Doc" Holliday. Delmar contracts with school divisions along the east coast for student yearbook photographs.

Bus drivers, school board members agree

The Virginia Beach Public Schools Employer/Employee Committee for Bus Drivers has announced that meet-and-confer discussions have been concluded, and agreement has been reached on all matters discussed. Recommendations would be forwarded to the superintendent of schools, who is expected to incorporate them in the school operating budget for presentation to the School Board.

If accepted by the Board and funded by the City Council, the recommendations would provide a salary increase of some 16 1/2 percent would be added to all supplementary run salaries, and the hourly pay for field trips would be increased from $3.25 to $3.50.

The recommendations also provide for continuation of fringe benefits at the current level.

Acceptance of all recommendations would add approximately $220,000, or about 15.4 percent, to current expenditures for drivers' salaries.

Public support campaign

Beach teachers wear buttons, circulate petitions for VBEA

By Greg Goldfarb,
Sun editor

Seatack Elementary School teachers Jon Hanbury and Mary Sue Richardson display Unity buttons and petitions distributed by the Virginia Beach Education Association.

"We'll wear the buttons and sign petitions until we see some action," said Seatack kindergarten teacher Hanbury.

"That's right," said Richardson, "we will continue to show our support for the VBA's actions by wearing the buttons and getting as many signatures on the petitions as possible; not only teachers but Beach residents as well."

2,500 buttons

VBEA associate director Jamie Chapman said 2,500 buttons were given out to VBEA members and expects back several thousand signatures on the petitions of support for the VBEA.

"Right now, however," Chapman said, "our president Ron Pierce and the city spokesperson Shirley Cassida are meeting to decide if it will be fruitful to continue meeting."

The VBEA is requesting better pay, more planning time, and smaller class size in Virginia Beach schools. The school board must approve the requests.

Deaf and blind

Woodstock hosts kids

Woodstock Elementary School recently hosted a group of students from the Virginia School for the Deaf and Blind, Hampton.

Visiting the fourth grade class of Mrs. Cindy Dussia, 32 students were teachers Catherine Harris and James Singleton. They brought with them 13 deaf, and/or hearing impaired students 13 to 16 years old.

Students question Congressman

Beach students get direct line to G. W. Whitehurst

By Joe Lowenthal,
Special to the Sun

During the last school year, Second District Congressman G. William Whitehurst began a series of telephone discussions with high school students in Virginia Beach.

Both Whitehurst and the students were highly enthusiastic about the "Conversation with the Congressman" program; therefore, Whitehurst has begun a new series of "conversations."

Princess Anne High School in Virginia Beach will be directly linked with the Congressman's office in Washington, D.C., via a two-way amplified WATS line telephone hookup. For about 45 minutes, students will be able to ask political questions, as well as national and international issue questions, using stationary microphones set up in the library. Congressman Whitehurst's answers will be amplified through external speakers of the portable conference phone.

Whitehurst said last year that he was particularly pleased with the depth of questions asked by the students on important issues, and that he is looking forward to more tough questions this year.

Bayside High School students will talk with Whitehurst on Monday, Feb. 23, and Kellam High School students will get their chance on Monday, March 9. Whitehurst talked with students last school year at Cox, Green Run, First Colonial and Kempsville high schools; a return telephone visit to those schools will be scheduled this spring also. On alternate weeks, the Congressman is making the program available to Norfolk high schools.

Daughter of Beach parents

No rocky road ahead for Farm Fresh Girl Rhodes

By Greg Goldfarb,
Sun editor

Her voice has been heard from the West Coast to the East.

Her face has been seen all along the Mid-Atlantic Seaboard. In Virginia Beach, however, she's most popular as the "friendly Farm Fresh Girl."

Acting since the age of 16, Chris Rhodes, daughter of Beach residents Mr. and Mrs. John R. Rhodes, has performed in over 30 live stage shows in her life, and appeared on approximately 1,000 television commercials over the last seven years.

In April, 1979, she worked as Katherine Ross' double and stand-in in the film, "The Final Countdown".

At 34, Rhodes lives in the Lafayette section of Norfolk, devoting most of her attention to her Beach parents and her now locally famous Farm Fresh role.

"I'm very happy with my relationship with Farm Fresh," she said, "I've been working with Gene Walters and his staff, as their spokesperson for about two years. They are really a great group to work for."

Rhodes estimates she works only five or six hours a week. Her salary for a day's work can reach $1,500.

"I really have a lot of spare time on my hands," she said, "I like it; however, I'm always looking for more work. I love to work; that's why I like living in this area and working rather than living in New York, working a little, and starving most of the time."

Parents retired at Beach

Rhodes' parents have been Beach residents for 11 years. Her father is a retired Air Force Colonel who does part-time income tax work in his home. She has three brothers and one sister: Ray, 33, a hospital administrator in Colorado Springs, Colo.; Bob, 30, a welder and builder in Blacksburg, Va.; Mike, 23, a former Bayside baseball pitching champ, and a senior at Virginia Tech who also practices with the St. Louis Cardinals; and Cathy, 32, a captain in the Air Force, stationed at the Pentagon.

Rhodes was born in Dover, but spent her first nine years moving between Dover, Delaware and Philadelphia, Penn.

"When my father had to go to war," she explained, "my family went to Philly to live. When he came home we stayed in Dover."

Rhodes' high school years were spent in Zaragoza, Spain. She attended Zaragoza dependent (or American) High School for American military families.

Rhodes, 16, as the character "Puck"

"I was a real grandstander when I was in high school," she said with a smile. "I cheered for three years; served on the student government council honor society for four years; and I was in the drama club for two years."

"I also used to play softball. I covered left field and was called Rocky Rhodes."

At 5'3" tall and 100 pounds, Rhodes was an unlikely candidate as a professional athlete. She didn't want to be one anyway. So Rhodes expanded her horizons and began her theatrical career on the high school radio station.

"That's where it all began," she recalls. "I couldn't get a part-time job in high school because all the Spanish kids got them first. I decided instead to occupy my time with the high school Armed Forces radio station. I had a slot on a weekly radio show. I guess that's when my public career actually began."

With a taste for broadcasting, Rhodes graduated high school in 1964 and enrolled that Fall at the University of Colorado, Boulder, as a math student.

"I started out studying mathematics," she said, "but I soon changed that to drama. I ended up dropping out after my first year because my parents and I agreed that the price of college education was very expensive and if I wasn't really going to pursue a professional field, not drama, we shouldn't waste the money."

Rhodes then worked six months as a sales clerk in a Colorado Springs department store. After that, for the next four and one-half years, she worked for the Colorado Interstate Gas Company. Both of these occupations served to finance her nighttime theatre activities.

"I played young teenage girl roles in the Colorado civic theatre groups," Rhodes said. "I also spent three years, on and off, with the El Paso Players. I did some musicals but to tell the truth, I really don't sing and dance very well."

Parents move to Beach

As Rhodes' theatre career was blossoming in Colorado, her parents had already moved to Virginia Beach.

"Mom and dad moved to the Beach in 1970," she said, "and lived where they live today in the Lake Smith Terrace section of Virginia Beach. My folks love it at the Beach, and will probably settle there forever. I even have an uncle now in Pennsylvania looking at property there."

Besides playing the Farm Fresh role, Rhodes has also appeared publicly for Hardee's, McDonald's and Family Circle Magazine.

"I also moved to the Beach that year in 1970, but only lived there six months. I really like Virginia Beach and the Beach area, but I began working in Norfolk and moved there."

At first, Rhodes found herself working at night on stage for the Tidewater Dinner Theatre, and during the day in its box office.

"In addition to the Tidewater," she said, "I worked for the Cavalier Dinner Playhouse. In 1970, I started working for a Norfolk radio station as a receptionist, and ad traffic manager for the disc jockey's. They let me make a few commercials, but in general, I was really having a hard time then finding my niche in life."

Rhodes finally quit the radio station after seven months to work full-time for the Tidewater dinner theatre.

"I knew I wanted to act so I got out of the radio business," she said "and got back on stage more. It was hard because I was always rehearsing during the nights and looking for any kind of odd jobs during the day."

In 1973 Rhodes began working for a Norfolk talent center, where she said she finally heard her calling for the stage.

"I was the talent coordinator for this fabulous center," she said, "and it was there that I realized that my calling was to be an actress.

"But more importantly, I decided then that I wanted to devote most of my time exclusively to making commercials. I tested myself during that period and passed. I've been free-lancing ever since. I can't complain now because I'm not overworked, I pay my bills, and I'm happy."

New York, New York

Rhodes went to New York and considered a career there but she didn't want to get caught up in the fast paced life-style of the Big Apple. Nevertheless, she considers herself just as much of an artist making commercials as she did performing on the live stage.

"I won't sacrifice my artistry, or my imagination for the almighty buck," she said. "If I can make a living doing what I want to do in an area I like, I will. I don't want to be a big star, or see my name in lights. I just want to work. Eventually I hope I will make national commercials but I don't intend to starve while I'm waiting."

I don't

Concerning marriage, Rhodes said, "I've been close to it a couple of times. It just seems that when the time really got near, I panicked and ran. In fact, I panicked and ran as recently as six months ago."

Her hobbies include: Traveling, reading, admiring antiques, going to auctions, and "having intimate dinners with friends." She doesn't go to many local theatre shows, saying, "I'd rather be in them than watch."

Actors' school

In the future, Rhodes would like to open a school for actors and acresses, and help them make the transition from the stage to the screen.

"I would like to open," she said, "what would be considered a local school for actors and actresses."

"It's hard for many stage performers to make a smooth transition from the stage to the television screen. I believe I could help them make that adjustment through individualized instructions and exercises."

Beach skating rink owners skate for charity

The efforts of two Virginia Beach roller skating rink owners, Jim Boyd of Sterling and Walter Carter, have resulted in the nationwide Roller Skating Rink Owners of America accepting sponsorship of a new national special event benefitting the American Heart Association: "Skate for Heart."

Boyd was contacted in November, 1979, by Mrs. Mary Ann Everly of Waynesboro, a member of the American Heart Association, Virginia affiliate's board of directors, about holding a new kind of event where individuals skate for pledges linked to the length of their activity. The Sterling event netted about $5,000 for the Heart Association.

"Our first skating event for Heart was received very well, community-wide," recalled Boyd.

"What really appealed to me," he explains, "was that 75% of the money we raised stays in Virginia and that cardiovascular disease is our state's number one cause of death."

Impressed with the active interest and support of local Heart volunteers and staff, Boyd contacted friend and fellow RSROA Board member Carter. They promoted the event at the winter meeting of their Southeastern RSROA Chapter and the "Skate for Heart" was approved as a Chapter special event.

"Information from rink owners around the country who had held events for Heart indicated that Heart volunteers and staff really pitched in to make the event successful," says Carter. "Plus, we were very interested in the Heart Association's recognizing the exercise benefits of skating," he explains.

Meetings between representatives of Heart and RSROA resulted in a Heart Association presentation to RSROA's National meeting in November on the role that roller skating can play in cardiovascular fitness. Boyd and Carter proposed that the organization endorse the event as a second National Special Event, with equal emphasis as the current event held for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. On November 18, 1980, the RSROA National Board of Directors approved the event.

The nationwide Skate-for-Heart is slated for inauguration in March-May, 1982. The Heart Association is preparing a special promotional and informational kit as well as educational materials on the aerobic benefits of roller skating.

His life was Hell, miserable

Suicide victim had no chance

By Greg Goldfarb,
Sun editor

"I feel grief and anger," said Beach resident Bill Hughes, brother of suicide victim Roger Hughes.

"The grief is the same anyone would experience who had lost a loved one. The anger results from feeling that my brother Roger never seemed to have a chance of surviving in this world."

Bill is now 37 years old and a 10 year Virginia Beach mental health counselor. His brother Roger was 33, unemployed, and living in Missouri when he hanged himself in June of 1979. He had previously attempted a massive drug overdose in Dec., 1978.

"It was only a few days before Christmas," Bill remembers. "I wasn't with him at the time but I knew the attempt was very serious.

"He had a history of mental illness, dating back to when he was 16 years old and first admitted to a state hospital. He had been unemployed most of his life, on medication, and suffered from a distraught relationship with a female member of the halfway house he lived in. He was a functional schizophrenic, and had been withdrawn since he was a kid. The last time I saw him, he had lost a lot of weight; that was a grave sign for him, but not unusual. His loss of weight was usually accompanied with severe depressions, delusions, and more withdrawal.

"But as far as figuring out what the straw was that broke the camel's back, I don't know what it was. Our family discussed it. I corresponded with his girlfriend for several months after he died, but we couldn't understand why he did it."

No obvious clues

Bill noted that while Roger seemed a likely candidate for suicide because of his prior attempt and medical history, many times perfectly stable businessmen will commit suicide within a few days after the loss of a loved one, or an esteemed professional title. Bill didn't notice any blatant clues forewarning of Roger's death.

"I should have realized it when he began losing weight," Bill recalls. "But I really didn't want to think that the known suicide clues would apply to my brother, especially since I knew he had a formal history of mental illness. I accepted him as my brother and loved him for it. I wasn't going to label him as suicidal because of his illness. But after the first attempt, I should have really paid more attention to him."

Roger said the question that plagues the surviving family is why the suicide happened. Although there are no certain answers, Bill cites three factors which could have had an influence on his brother's death.

"This may sound a little absurd," Bill said, "but during the last two or three years, Roger actually became more lucid than he had been in his earlier years. He had stopped hallucinating and that was a good sign.

"But it seemed that the more lucid he became, the *Editor's Note: This is the second part of a three part Sun series on suicides in Virginia Beach. The above story is true, only the names were changed to protect the family involved. Next week's article will discuss suicide prevention and programs in the Beach community as well as a consideration of whether or not suicides, and details, should be reported in the newspapers.

"He (Roger) died hanging only 12 inches from the ground"—Bill Hughes more depressed he got. He began saying to himself, 'My God! I actually am crazy, and have been for years.' Roger also figured that he'd remain crazy for the rest of his life. He became aware of the circumstances surrounding his personal life: No car, no job, no home. He had a sister nearby, but apparently she could not provide the relief he needed either.

"Secondly, he had begun an interpersonal relationship with a girl a couple of years younger than he. I think that frustrated him a little bit. They had problems between them because they realized they, as a couple, were unable of maintaining a household and raising a family by themselves. They were also worried about the permanency of their relationship. Roger had never in his life been able to make responsible and intelligent judgements for himself.

"And thirdly, when Roger lost weight he usually became psychotic. He would experience delusions, and themes of persecution. He was not a thinking being all of the time."

Roommate to the rescue, once

Bill said Roger's roommate in the halfway house found him after his first attempt and took him to the hospital to have his stomach pumped.

Roger's roommate also found him after his second attempt, but too late to prevent its success.

"The apartment building they were living in was sold," Bill said.

"It had a steel fire escape running along the outside of it from top to bottom. He pulled the electrical AC cord from the radio and tied one end of it to the fire escape and the other end to his neck. He jumped and died hanging only 12 inches from the ground. He lived on a first floor apartment.

"I believe the only reason he hung himself was because he didn't have a gun."

Personal/family feelings

Roger said his feelings were different than those of other members of the family.

"I feel some guilt," he said, "because I didn't have more interaction with my brother before he died. But some of my sisters felt more guilt than I; especially my sister living closest to him.

"But the feeling that overwhelms the survivors is one of grief, just like that you'd feel over any other tragedy. I also feel angry at God for Roger's mental illness. I want to know why it had to happen to him. But, Roger was a religious man. Maybe his death was a blessing in disguise. Maybe Roger felt that he would be happier and healthier in heaven, or Hell, than on earth because most of his life was Hell already.

"I feel that Roger's death was unfair. He never enjoyed life. He never knew happiness."

Listeners must listen

Listening, according to Bill, is the most important activity Beach residents can do in trying to cope with suicide.

"Listen," he said, "please listen to someone who doesn't seem happy, or who seems helpless and hopeless. If they have already attempted suicide once or numerous times before, don't tell them they're crazy for doing it. Talk to the person about it, and above all listen and try to understand what they are saying; that's crucial for survivors.

"I know in my own experience, after Roger's funeral the family got together for a group session. I suggested that we all needed to be able to talk about what had happened for our own well being, and if they couldn't face discussing Roger's death, they had better seek professional help.

"But regardless of how much you talk about it, the survivors of a suicide victim will experience intense reactions for about six months."

Out of the closet

The most important message Bill could pass onto Virginia Beach residents, he said, is to bring suicides out of the closet.

"I hope Virginia Beach residents will realize that the days of the Dark Ages are over," he said. "During those times the corpse of someone who had committed suicide was defiled; either by running a steak through its heart or by burying the body at the town's crossroads. Both actions were taken to punish the soul for the act.

"There's a passage from the book, 'The Savage God,' by Alvarez, which sums up my feelings on this subject very well. The lines read:

"As for suicide: The sociologists and psychologists who talk of it as a disease puzzle me now as much as the Catholics and Muslims who call it the most deadly of mortal sins. It seems to me somehow as much beyond social or psychic prophylaxis as it is beyond morality, a terrible but utterly natural reaction to the strained, narrow, unnatural necessities we sometimes create for ourselves. And it is not for me. Perhaps I am no longer optimistic enough. I assume now that death when it finally comes, will probably be nastier than suicide, and certainly a great deal less convenient."

Beacher Jenny Wong wants her own business; and to do more art

A two year Beach resident, Jenny Wong is a Norfolk native and a graduate of Maury High School.

"Even though I'm from Norfolk originally," Jenny said, "I feel like the entire area has been my home all my life; especially Virginia Beach."

Married to Mark Slaughter

Married to assistant city attorney Mark E. Slaughter, Jenny attended Chowan College and Atlantic Christian College, and holds a bachelor of arts degree in commercial arts.

A free lance artist and model, Jenny currently works part time with her parents in their Norfolk noodle business.

She has also worked for a Richmond printing company, performing graphics, designing, and lay-out work.

likes to travel

Wong's hobbies include racquetball, tennis, bowling, snow skiing, and traveling.

"I've visited Switzerland, Paris, China, Hong Kong, Hawaii, Vegas, and Canada," she said.

Her music taste ranges from Rock to Jazz.

She and her husband live in the Kings Neck Woods section of Virginia Beach.

A look to the future?

"I want to do more artwork," Jenny said, "and perhaps one day open my own business."

Beachers plan Summer trips

With almost three more months of winter left this year, most Virginia Beach residents have probably not started to make plans for the summer. Now is the time to plan ahead, however, if you would like to participate in an adventurous summer study abroad program offered by Virginia Tech's College of Home Economics.

The six-week program called "Finnish Life and Institutions" takes its participants to Helsinki, the capital of Finland, where they study Finnish culture, family life styles, family programs and support institutions, functional design, nutrition, consumer economics, and many other areas of home economics and human ecology.

Several weekends spent with Finnish families will give students an opportunity to meet Finns and experience their way of life. Field trips to Finnish businesses and cultural attractions are another highlight. In addition, the students spend two weeks of travel and study throughout Finland, including the towns and cities of Ivalo, Lahti, Kuopio, Porvoo, Turku, and Rovaniemi (gateway to the Arctic Circle). A weekend trip to Leningrad, Russia, is an option also offered by the program.

Undergraduate students earn nine quarter hours of credit and graduate students earn six quarter hours of credit. It is not necessary, however, to currently be enrolled in a college or university to apply for admittance to the program.

The group will depart New York by Finnair on Monday, July 6, 1981, and return to New York on Wednesday, Aug. 19.

The cost for undergraduate students, including transatlantic travel from New York to Helsinki and return, plus room, board, and travel within Finland is $2,675.

The cost for graduate students is $2,750. An additional $10 application fee is required for participants not enrolled at Virginia Tech. Registration must be made no later than Feb. 28.

For more information on the program, contact Rita Purdy, 216 Wallace Hall, Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, Va. 24061 or call (703) 961-6779.

Linkhorn club plans to beautify 32nd Street

In cooperation with the City of Virginia Beach, the Linkhorn Park Garden Club plans to plant and beautify the area on Pinewood Road (or 32nd Street) from Pacific Avenue to the C. & P. Telephone Company building. This area backs the parking lots of Kellam & Eaton Insurance, Roses and Drug Fair.

To date five businesses in the area have made contributions to this project and we welcome community interest and participation from those who will benefit by this project.

A permanent planting of seven live oak trees will line the three grass islands and will complete and enhance the present landscaping of the 300 block of Pinewood Road. The total cost of the project will be $318.

The planting will be completed before March and from then on maintained by the City of Virginia Beach.

Beach attorney Theodore A. Boyce loses license for years

Virginia Beach Lawyer Theodore A. Boyce, 48, recently received a three-year suspension of his Virginia law license in an action taken by a three-judge panel in the Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach.

The three-judge court unanimously ruled that Boyce violated two rules of the Virginia Code of Professional Responsibility, a set of Virginia Supreme Court canons governing the conduct of attorneys, and also found him guilty of violating a previous suspension of his law license. Boyce had received a 60-day suspension of his license from the Circuit Court of Virginia Beach beginning June 1, 1977, but during this suspension period continued to represent a client.

In the complaint filed against Boyce by the Second District Committee of the Virginia State Bar, it was alleged that Boyce acquired an interest in a client's cause of action by loaning money to her, that he assisted her in obtaining loans for which he was also responsible, and that he failed to maintain adequate records of his financial transactions with this client.

The effective date of Boyce's three-year suspension was Jan. 1 of this year. The Virginia State Bar is the administrative arm of the Supreme Court of Virginia responsible for disciplining attorneys for misconduct.

Beach expert gives advice

Is there mold in your home jelly jar?

By Doris Campbell,
Special to the Sun

The following are three home economics questions asked by Virginia Beach residents:

Mold in jelly jar

Q: When I opened a jar of jelly made this summer, I found some mold growing under the paraffin seal. Is it alright to skim off the mold and eat the rest of the jelly?
Laura Kelley.

A: No. Our grandmothers used to say, "A little mold won't hurt you, but modern research has disclosed that only the mold introduced deliberately into "Blue" cheeses such as Roquefort, Gorgonzola or Silton is trustworthy. All other molds, as they grow in food, may produce harmful substances called mycotoxins that may cause illness. Molds are microscopic fungi whose dry spores (or seeds) drop on food and grow silk-like threads. These threads become slight streaks of discoloration in food or cover it with a mat of fuzz. Also, molds eat natural acid present in food, lowering the acidity that is protection against other dangerous toxins, such as that produced by botulism bacteria.

Q: What are the best ways to clean winter boots?
Sharon Carpenter.

A: Leather boots require special care to preserve their good looks. Before wearing for the first time, give them an application of paste wax to protect against water, rock salt stains and dirt. Remove loose dirt with a damp cloth after every wearing. For heavy dirt, use saddle soap or other mild soap, but never detergent or cleaning solvents which will discolor and harden the leather.

Suede boots cannot be cleaned successfully with water so send soiled boots to a commercial suede cleaner. A light application of silicone spray before the first wearing will prevent snow and rain from doing too much damage. Dry boots away from direct heat and restore nap by brushing or rubbing with fine sandpaper. Store leather in soft cloth, never in plastic bags.

Vinyl and rubber molded in one piece without seams offer the best waterproof protection and are easy to clean by wiping with a damp, sudsy cloth. Unlined and fleece lined boots can be machine washed in warm water, gentle cycle. Don't put in an automatic dryer. Fur lined boots with leather soles should not be machine washed. When buying a new pair of boots, check with the salesperson concerning care and any commercial preparations for cleaning and prevention of staining.

Q: Natural fibers are making a comeback in popularity. What is the proper way to care for silk scarves and garments that are often received as Christmas presents?
Jeanette Cherry.

A: Caring for silk properly will keep it looking beautiful for a long time. For the best results, read and follow the cleaning directions on the permanently attached care label. As the fabric tends to water spot, dry cleaning is generally recommended. Some items, usually scarves, are hand washable. Use lukewarm water and a mild detergent or a gentle soap. Rubbing or wringing the fabric is not necessary because silk, unlike silk-look polyesters, releases soil very easily and can be weakened by less-than-gentle handling.

Some silk blends can be machine washed on a gentle cycle, but they should be line dried to minimize shrinkage. Press silk on the wrong side while the garment is still damp. Cover with a white cloth to avoid water spotting and use the low setting on a steam iron. If you stain silk, don't delay in bringing it to a dry cleaner; letting the stain "set" will make it more difficult to remove. To prevent perspiration stains, wear dress or blouse shields.

Beacher Karnitschnig makes gymnastics team

Leslie Karnitschnig of Virginia Beach has been selected as a member of the 1980-81 James Madison University women's gymnastics team.

A sophomore, she competes in the uneven parallel bars for the Duchesses.

Karnitschnig is a graduate of First Colonial High School where she won the regional all-around title as a senior.

The JMU team has a 1-1 record. The Duchesses' next competition will be Jan. 17 at North Carolina State University.

JMU will host the men's and women's state gymnastics championships on March 1, 1981.

Karen Weeks on honor roll

Karen Weeks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill F. Weeks, of Virginia Beach has been placed on the President's List, a student must be enrolled full-time and earn a 3.30 1980 fall semester. A sophomore, she is one of 307 students named to the academic honor roll.

In order to be eligible for the President's List, a student must be enrolled full-time and earn a 3.30 or above grade point average on the 4.00 scale.

For information call Harry E. Baird, Jr., at 486-3110.

Aragona Elementary student featured at fund raising show

The American Jazz Ensemble will appear at the Church of the Ascension on Sunday, Feb. 15, at 2:30 p.m. for "An Afternoon of Jazz", a fund raising event for the Virginia Chapter of Young Audiences.

The church is located at 4853 Princess Anne Road.

A special feature in the program will be Vashelle Ogden, a 10 year old Beach girl whose talents were discovered by the Jazz Ensemble in a Young Audiences performance at her school, Aragona Elementary.

"Vashelle is especially gifted, finding blindness a slight handicap," a spokesman said.

Demonstrate skills

Beach science fairs set in public schools

The following is a list of science fairs which will be held in the coming weeks at Virginia Beach secondary schools.

Each year science students demonstrate the lessons they have learned in the five fields of science taught in Virginia Beach Public Schools. Using this knowledge, the students on their own prepare a project in a selected field: biology, chemistry, physics, engineering, and earth-science.

The winning projects from each junior and senior high school will then be displayed in a city-wide science fair, scheduled to be held this year on Saturday, March 14, at plaza Junior High School.

Fair locations

School, Feb. 5 (Thursday); Kempsville Junior High School, Feb. 12 (Thursday); Princess Anne Junior High School, Feb. 23 (Monday); and Bayside High School, Mar. 5 (Thursday).

On weekdays, each school's science fair is usually held after school hours. (All senior high school hours end about 2 p.m. as do Virginia Beach and Princess Anne junior highs; all other junior high schools end about 4 p.m.). Those fairs scheduled on Saturdays will usually begin about 11 a.m.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY
REMEMBER MARY BALL?

I like to think of the sterling character and Spartan courage of Mary Ball, the mother of Washington. Every virtue her son possessed, she passed on to him. She was imperious at times, and had a habit of issuing orders and demanding instant obedience. Punctuality was her creed and was unto those of her family who did not move by the stroke of her clock. However, in spite of her strength of will and very great nobility of character, she in no wise sought to drive him to decisions in harmony with her own. When he went out against the French, she bitterly opposed it. She mourned: "Oh the fighting and the killing." Then, lifting her eyes to Heaven, she added: "God is our sure trust. To Him, I commend you." When the Revolution broke, she again wept: "Oh, is there to be more fighting, more blood shed? Surely, it will end in the halter."

At the close of the Revolution, when her son returned victorious from Yorktown, he sent his orderly ahead to prepare her so that the shock would not be too great. Touching his three-cornered hat, the orderly said: "Madam, His Excellency will be here within the hour." "His Excellency?" exclaimed the proud old mother. "You tell George I'll be glad to see him." Then, to her maid: "Patsy, I shall need a white apron."

When we see the great chieftain praying at Valley Forge, we need to remember Mary Ball, who went daily to pray at Meditation Rock, where she now lies buried.

Texas musical

The best little play now running for Beachers

The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas," is playing through Feb. 12 in Chrysler Hall for Beach residents.

Based on a real incident involving the closing of a famed Texas brothel, the musical was co-authored by Larry L. King and Peter Masterson who recreated his direction of the show with Tony-award winner Tommy Tune, who was also responsible for the choreography. Masterson became interested in King's magazine article about the closing of the Chicken Ranch in LaGrange, Texas in 1973, and prevailed upon him to work with award-winning composer/lyricist Carol Hall to musicalize the remarkable tale.

Francie Mendenhall heads the large cast as Miss Mona Stangley, the feisty madam who runs the famed Chicken Ranch with Steven Edwards as the vigilante television newsman who instigates the closing, Christopher Wynkoop as the sym-

The rousing score, performed by the company's own traveling country and western band, was nominated for a Grammy Award for "Best Cast Show Album" with several songs already recorded or performed by Barbra Streisand, Barbara Cook Mabel Mercer, Neil Diamond and Nell Carter. Included were such show-stopping numbers as "A Lil Ole Bitty Pissant Country Place," "Girl You're a Woman," "Hard Candy Christmas" and, of course, "Texas Has a Whorehouse In It." Produced by Steve Phillips in association with Universal Pictures, settings are by Lawrence Miller and Ann Roth and Beverly Emmons recreating their respective original Broadway costume and lighting designs.

Eastern Shore Chapel plans $400,000 expansion

Groundbreaking for a $400,000 expansion of Eastern Shore Chapel Episcopal Church in Virginia Beach has been completed.

Founded in 1689 by Tidewater settlers as a "Chapel of Ease" on the eastern shore of the Lynnhaven River, the church realized its first permanent facility in 1757 when the congregation moved to a site in the vicinity of what is now Oceana Naval Air Station. There, in 1953, the 40 church members moved to its present location at 2020 Laskin Road. Today, the membership has grown to 1,200.

The church has signed a contract with George Jensen, General Contractor, to build a new parish hall and make extensive renovations to the existing facility at a cost of $397,344.

The contract with Jensen covers the construction of a 6800 square foot parish hall and a new entry area to the existing building which will house the Diocesan bookstore for Southern Virginia and a new reception area. Also included in the project are a new choir room, a new professionally equipped kitchen, additional classrooms for Church School and Day School activities and an improved administration area.

The contract also calls for the installation of a new roof over the existing parish hall complex, as well as improved landscaping and enhanced parking facilities.

Plans for the new structure were developed by Wylie Cooke of the architectural firm of Oliver, Smith and Cooke.

Eastern Shore Chapel is served by the Rev. Charles M. Riddle, III and the Rev. Robert D. Friend, associate rector. The Tricentennial building program committee has been chaired by Mr. Wayne Dementi. Mr. Leon Johnson is treasurer.

Beach residents invited

Open house at Career Center

Beach residents are invited to an open house at the Career Development Center, Witchduck Road and Virginia Beach Boulevard, on Wednesday, Feb. 11, from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The unique facility, operated by Virginia Beach Public Schools, serves a wide variety of vocational-technical course needs, as well as the academic and career needs of students who may be secondary school dropouts or potential dropouts. In addition, it offers marketable skill training for special education students.

Once a department store, the building has been transformed into a most unusual educational center, planned around employment opportunities and needs of Virginia Beach and Tidewater.

Business leaders from throughout the area are also being invited to attend the open house to see first-hand what the center has to offer. Shops, classrooms, and diagnostic centers will be open and staffed by students and teachers who will explain all phases of the school's operation. The food service class will operate the snack bar for the public during the open house, just as it does for students each school day.

The Career Development Center is different from all other schools in Virginia Beach; the open house affords everyone an opportunity to see and appreciate it.

Tennessee alumni meet at Beach

University of Tennessee alumni will meet in Virginia Beach on Wednesday, Feb. 18.

The Virginia Bay Chapter of UT's National Alumni Association will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Lighthouse Restaurant, Ocean and Rudee Inlet, according to Alan Manzie, chapter president. There will be a social hour at 6:30.

Dr. Warren Neel, dean of the UT Knoxville College of Business Administration, will speak. The meeting is open to alumni of all UT campuses plus friends of the university in this area.

Those planning to attend can make reservations by sending their checks for the dinner to Robert Liberman, 3226 Dunnbury Court, Virginia Beach 23456.

Checks should be made payable to the Virginia Bay UT Alumni Chapter.

Other chapter officers are Liberman, vice president, and Susan Hall, secretary-treasurer.

Neel holds the B.S. degree from Mississippi State University and the M.B.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Alabama. He joined the UTK College and Business Administration in 1969 and served as associate professor, associate dean and acting dean before assuming the college's top post.

The University of Tennessee National Alumni Association represents graduates and former students of all present and former UT campuses. Association membership now exceeds 100,000.

The association annually sponsors alumni chapter meetings in a number of states, alumni tours, receptions after UT ball games, special programs for women, and other activities in support of the university.

City Council News

Developers add 6.5 site acres

Pavilion Towers phase one up by June

By Lee Cahill,
Sun City Council correspondent

Beach developers are expected to start construction of Pavilion Towers in June and with "fast tracking" expect to complete the first phase in a year.

The Pavilion Towers will not be a 34 story building as first envisioned, it won't be the highest building in Virginia and it won't be as big as originally contemplated. But it will pass height requirements of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA).

Instead of a 336 foot tall structure, which would have made the Towers the tallest building in Virginia, the Towers will be 169.5 feet above sea level, just under the FAA 170 foot maximum.

Jose Soria, of Soria and Julian, architects of Colley Avenue in Norfolk, said the hotel will be divided into two towers which will contain 300 rooms each.

The developer, Edward S. Garcia, has had to acquire two more acres to the 6 1/2 acre site near the Pavilion, the city's arts and conference center, to accommodate the two towers.

The first phase will consist of a 200,000 square foot building and the second phase will have 120,000 square feet. The original high rise was to have 570,000 square feet.

Soria said that peripheral services, such as saunas, have been cut out of the revised plans which were shown to City Council Monday afternoon at an executive session.

With the redesign of the building to fit FAA standards, City Council has been relieved of any decision making in connection with the hotel. All that remains on the city's part is approval of the site plan by the Planning Administration.

The Navy had complained that the 336 foot building should interfere with the take-off and landing pattern at the Naval facility.

The first phase will include two dining rooms (a third will be in the second phase), and a covered swimming pool just beyond the main ballroom and meeting rooms.

Soria said his firm is associated with Design Collaborators, of Charlotte, N.C.

City manager George L. Hanbury supported plans for a luxury hotel next to the Pavilion because such a facility is considered necessary for the highest use of the Pavilion.

Oceana wants money for land

Congress is being asked to appropriate adequate money for the Navy to acquire restrictive easements around Naval Air Station Oceana to protect the base and control development in that area.

Virginia Beach City Council Monday afternoon approved a resolution to that effect, noting that the officials of the Navy and the City of Virginia Beach have worked in close cooperation to protect the overall interests of the citizens of Virginia Beach through the Air Installation Compatible Use Zone (AICUZ) program.

Councilman John A. Baum noted that the Navy started asking for money back in 1954 when the money needed was about $2 million. Baum estimated that now the cost of acquiring easements on vacant land would be about $50 million and on improved land about $100 million. "They should have done this many years ago," he said.

Council changes meeting times

Virginia Beach City Council Monday afternoon approved an ordinance which changes the time of meetings on the first, second and third Mondays of the month from 1 p.m. to 12:30 p.m. The fourth Monday meeting starts at 5:30 p.m.

The change allows more time for consideration of the informal agenda which precedes the regular meeting at 1 p.m.

School, city duties may join

Virginia Beach may try to save money by consolidating comparable functions of the school and city administrations.

City Council on Feb. 23 will consider a concept for consolidation proposed by Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf Monday afternoon. The date was set to give the School Board and Superintendent of Schools Dr. E. E. Brickell a chance to study the proposal.

The first step in the proposal presented by Oberndorf would be the selection of a consultant and the earliest implementation of any consolidation plan Council may choose would be fiscal 1982.

Mayor Dr. J. Henry McCoy Jr. said he didn't "think there's a lot of opposition." He said he had talked to Brickell about the proposal and Brickell had agreed there may be areas which could be considered. "I don't think your idea will go unheard," McCoy said.

City manager George L. Hanbury said he would recommend the study "today."

Oberndorf said later that if there are any savings they could be used for teachers' salaries which seem to be the top concern of the school administration.

She said that during budget hearings it became evident that sharing of services by the city and school administrations could yield significant savings.

"Is it necessary to have vehicle maintenance, buildings and grounds maintenance, finance and purchasing in both organizations?" she asked.

In her report to council she said that Roanoke has recently completed a feasibility study and hopes to receive an initial return of at least one million dollars on its investment of $80,000 for the study. Portsmouth is presently reviewing proposals to study the feasibility of consolidating some services. Old Dominion University's Urban Services Center has prepared a proposal for Portsmouth to assemble a team to conduct the study.

She said that it is anticipated that savings can be through changes in the operation of various departments and through the consolidation of comparable functions such as purchasing, transportation and maintenance.

Oberndorf said that consolidation "doesn't automatically mean that anybody loses a job. Whatever is done will have to be balanced with the social, political and other pressures.

She said that Roanoke combined its personnel and legal services.

Oberndorf suggested an independent consultant because "a third party could be more objective."

Councilwoman Reba McClanahan said that some of the Northern Virginia communities have used the same approach. Hanbury said he thought these were in-house studies.

The current School Board budget is $85,844,041, more than half of which is for instruction ($49,417,883) and another $7,064,086 is for other instruction related costs.

McCoy calls for unity

Virginia Beach Mayor J. Henry McCoy Jr. called for a united front to find solutions for the city's water shortage problems in light of criticisms of individual actions or non-action and "fights" with other jurisdictions.

If there has to be criticism, the best place for it is in executive sessions, he told City Council at an informal meeting Monday afternoon.

And there have been many of those sessions lately! Last week a three-hour executive session on Monday was carried over to Thursday. Council had another executive session Monday for almost an hour and running 20 minutes into the regular Council session, and a session of close to an hour was held following the meeting.

Last week's executive sessions were admittedly on water. This week's included other matters.

McCoy promised Monday, "We're all going to try to do better about criticizing each other and fighting with other jurisdictions...Nobody on this Council has done anything wrong...Nobody in Tidewater has done anything wrong."

He said that since Virginia Beach depended on Norfolk for water it had no other choice than to support Norfolk's water program. He added that when no improvement was in sight by the Christmas holidays, the city decided to strike out on its own. "We haven't done any wrong. If any wrong was done it was done years ago" when the city might have been looking for a water supply, and I'm not sure about that."

"But I hate to see it debated in the press. Divided we fall, united we stand!" An executive session is the best place for that sort of thing, he said.

Councilwoman Barbara Henley shed a little humor on the situation when she produced a newspaper with the headline, "No Agreement On Water Problem." The paper was dated 1924 and the subject was the City of South Norfolk's attempts to get a municipal water supply.

Councilman Reid Ervin added that something is being done. On Oct. 20, the Norfolk reservoirs were down to 88 days supply and today (Monday), they were up to 120 days supply.

EVMA addresses Beach council

The Eastern Virginia Medical Authority (EVMA) wants the General Assembly to give EVMA a more equitable share of aid to indigents for teaching, hospitals Dr. William D. Mayer, EVMA president told the Virginia Beach City Council Monday afternoon at an informal session of Council.

Dr. Mayer presented Council with its annual report for 1979 along with a slide presentation of the activities of the EVMA.

According to EVMA, the EVMA receives only 7.7 percent of the $65 million available to the three medical colleges, while it serves 29.3 percent of the indigents, the highest number in the state. Medical College of Virginia receives 59 percent of the money while serving only 21 percent of the indigents and the University of Virginia receives 35 percent of the money while serving 13.3 percent of the indigents.

The Area Cooperation Committee comprised of the six Chambers of Commerce in the EVMA area, is asking the General Assembly for the additional funding.

Mayer said that approximately 330 Virginia Beach residents are employed by the Medical Authority and during 1981 will earn about $6.5 million in EVMA salaries. At about 34 percent of the EVMA work force Virginia Beach will earn around 38 percent of the total EVMA payroll.

Since fiscal 1976 Virginia Beach has invested $1.75 million in the medical Authority which had budgets during the period of $126,462,000. Since salary costs are 60 percent of the budget and Virginia Beach residents are 38 percent of the EVMA work forces, approximately $29 million in EVMA salaries have gone to residents of Virginia Beach during the last seven years.

Also, during the current fiscal year, EVMA expects to purchase $1 million in goods and services from Virginia Beach suppliers.

Among other statistics presented by the authority:

Since the charter class of 1973, EVMA has accepted 263 eastern Virginians as medical students, of which 63 were from Virginia Beach, 16 entering last June. Virginia Beach residents have comprised 24 percent of eastern Virginia admissions and 12.4 percent of the 308 total admissions.

During 1979 Virginia Beach residents accounted for 2,398 inpatient days and 5,826 outpatient hours at the Community Mental Health Center and Psychiatric Institute operated by EVMA.

One hundred fourteen Virginia Beach nurses and other allied health professionals participated in the in-service training programs of the year ended June 30, 1980. The programs are operated on a shared-cost basis, are less expensive than those run by individual hospitals.

Direct state funding for care of the medically indigent through EVMA's programs in medical education will provide more than $47,000 dollars to Virginia Beach hospitals this fiscal year.

Council control over peddlers

Virginia Beach City Council next Monday will consider two ordinances which are designed to give the city more control over peddlers.

One would permit no sales of any sort on a public right of way by placing a limit on the length of time a peddler could park his truck on the right of way.

The other would charge a full business license for those peddlers who park their vehicles on private property.

The problem came to Council's attention last summer with the proliferation of roadway vendors from North Carolina and the Eastern Shores selling seafood.

Council decided then that the peddlers could not be controlled through zoning laws.

Councilman Donald Merrick Monday afternoon at an informal session said that since the city collects little or no tax from these vendors, an unfair competitive situation was created for the city's conventional retailers of seafood.

City manager George L. Hanbury said the ordinances are being prepared for next week.

Councilman Harold Heischberger said that control should be through proper licensing, taxation and insurance to protect the health, safety and welfare of the people. A vendor, he said, can hit and run and leave a lot of people with botulism.

$50,000 for consumer education

A $50,000 federal grant for consumer education programs, rejected by Virginia Beach City Council last week, may meet a kinder reception in six months when the city will have another change to file a grant application.

Monday afternoon was the deadline for filing the grant application, which the Council denied, so that it was too late to reconsider.

Council, however, decided to have the matter placed on the agenda March 2 when Fred Bates, director of the Family Protection Services of America, will be given time to give reasons why the city should support such a grant.

Council doesn't usually turn down grant applications because when the city refuses to take the money, another locality will get it. Bates said later that if Council really wants to cut down on government spending, it will have to do so at the legislative levels. It would have to use its clout to reduce taxation by cutting the grants off at the source.

As it is, all Council did is keep the money from Virginia Beach, which can use the money, he said.

Bates said that the FPSA is a privately supported organization which offers consumer advice to its members. He refused to say how large the organization is, but said that it is supported by $35 per person member, ship fees. A principal of Bates Brothers, a marketing firm, Bates works for FPSA on contract, he said. The FPSA office is at 1567 Laskin Road, Virginia Beach.

Bates told Council that he would prepare a statement to distribute to Council before the Council meeting. He said the material he will furnish will bring to light consumer fraud most people don't know about.

Councilman Reid Ervin said that the six members who opposed approval last week did so on the grounds that services would be duplicated. The VPI Extension Service carries on a consumer education program but City manager George L. Hanbury said that the coordinator, who would be included in the grant program, would not duplicate any of the Extension Service's efforts.

Councilwomen Reba McClanahan said that a bill in the General Assembly calls for a study of the Extension Service and reducing its funds in urban localities. Such action "would reduce our funds considerably," she said.

Councilwoman Barbara Henley, who charged that programs under the grant are already being carried out elsewhere, said she would like to see how the $50,000 would be spent.

McClanahan said she got the impression that Bates was interested in getting a job under the grant.

Bates said he would only take a position as a consultant. He said one of his jobs is to bring money into the FPSA organization. He said that his organization had applied for non-profit status, but was not eligible because of lobbying activities. He said that another organization is being formed which will qualify.

Voting against approval last week were Harold Heischberger, Henley, Holland, McClanahan, Donald Merrick and Patrick L. Standing. Meyer Oberdorff was absent. On a motion to deny, the motion was 9-1 with John A. Baum casting the dissenting vote.

According to J. N. McClanahan, the city's consumer protection officer, the grant would have been used to increase the limited consumer education program. Efforts would be directed to areas the Consumer Protection Division receives the highest numbers of complaints—home improvement and fraud, landlord/tenant rights and responsibilities, automobile repair rights, and consumer credit rights as specified by Federal and state law.

By chance last week, during a public hearing on the seventh-year Community Development block grant, John Perry, representing the Coalition of Minorities Civic Leagues, brought his own tale of fraud before City Council.

He said that contractors are preying on the elderly and the uninformed. In target neighborhoods where property owners do not qualify for rehabilitation contractors approach the residents with promises and propositions which usually leave the people in worse shape than they were before.

He said that one young couple were talked into remodeling a four-room house that should have been torn down. The vacant house was located on almost one acre of land at the corner of Birdneck Road and the new road leading to Owl's Creek Estates. A private appraiser had set the value of the land at $64,000.

The young couple ended up with a $20,000 debt to be paid off at $449 a month in 20 years, vinyl siding, electric heat in an uninsulated house and a five-by-7 bathroom (15,000 more) in which the tub is sitting on bare joists.

The couple had expected to have a rentable house which would furnish money to improve an elderly mother's home on the same property.

He asked the city to pass an ordinance which would require that any house that is to be rehabilitated would have to pass minimum standards.

Perry said a Norfolk Savings and Loan company finances the work and "any poor person who has a house they're trying to save" is a prospective victim.

Baum said, "I wish you'd brought this up sooner," when Council had considered the grant. "The program that we turned down a while ago, would help these people."

Henley said that "the program said we would use volunteers. We can use volunteers without one more bureaucrat sitting around."

Perry said, "These people have been beaten down all their lives and when a man comes along with blue suede shoes and a blue suit..."

He said later that the Coalition is trying to reach the people through the 43 churches in the target neighborhoods and to inform the people on one to one basis.

He said that by the time the people go to the Consumer Protection Agency, it's too late.

Beach council studies Kempsville

The City of Virginia Beach will study the County and Kempsville utility systems preparatory to making an offer to buy the private systems.

City Council Monday afternoon by a vote of 9-1 approved an appropriation of $76,000 to make an inventory and valuation study of the system. The study will consist of consultant engineering services ($40,000), property and easement appraisals and ($16,000) and a closed circuit television inspection of approximately 10,000 feet of gravity sewer lines ($20,000).

Virginia Beach Public Notices

published or as amended as a result of the public hearing, the Commission may adopt each such proposal, acting upon the proposals separately or in block.

CHAPTER 23. Fishing Generally.

Amend Regulation R23-2. Creel limits, to establish a separate limit of eight per day for walleye or yellow pike perch and eight per day for chain pickerel or jackfish statewide, except that ten walleye a day may be taken from South Holston Reservoir below full pool elevation of 1730.

Amend Regulation R32-13 to read as follows:

R21-13. Permits required for striped bass fishing rodeos, etc.

No person shall organize, conduct, supervise, or solicit entries for, striped bass fishing tournaments, rodeos, or other striped bass fishing events on the inland waters of this State, for which prizes are offered, awarded, or accepted, either in money or other valuable considerations, without having applied for and obtained a permit from the Commission to do so. Exercising a due regard for the distribution, local abundance, economic value, breeding habits, and natural growth potential of striped bass in the affected public waters, the Executive Director is authorized on behalf of the Commission to issue or deny permits pursuant to this regulation, and to establish such special rules for each tournament as may be deemed necessary, after consulting with the State Fish Biologist and with the approval of the Commission's Fish Committee as designated from time to time by the Chairman. Failure to comply with all special rules and other provisions of any permit issued pursuant to this regulation may be deemed grounds for denying the permittee a permit for a similar event to be held within three years from the date of such failure of compliance.

Amend Regulation R26-9. Taking carp and gar with bow and arrow. Section (a) Season - to eliminate the closed season only on taking carp and gar with bow and arrow from the public inland waters of the State, except waters stocked with trout, during the daylight hours only.

Virginia: In the Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach

vs. Taxpayers, Property owners and Citizens of the City of Virginia Beach including non-residents owning property or subject to taxation therein, and all other persons interested in or affected in any way by the issuance of approximately $7,000,000 in Industrial Development Revenue Bonds by the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority for the Benefit of Coastal Inn Associates.

MOTION FOR JUDGMENT

Plaintiff, the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority (the "Authority"), seeks a judicial determination, pursuant to Article 6, Chapter 5, Title 15.1, Code of Virginia of 1950, as amended, of the validity of approximately $7,000,000 Industrial Development Revenue Bonds (the "Bonds") for the benefit of COASTAL

INN ASSOCIATES (the "Company") to be issued to finance the construction of a motel and restaurant facility (the "Project"), and the Authority states as follows:

1. The Authority was duly created on April 1, 1964, by Acts of Assembly of 1964, Ch. 643, as amended, (the "Act"), and is a political subdivision of the Commonwealth of Virginia. The Authority has been continuously organized and operating under the Act since its creation.

2. At a meeting held on December 2, 1980, the Authority adopted a resolution agreeing to undertake the issuance of the Bonds upon terms and conditions to be mutually agreed upon between the Authority and the Company, with the Project to be leased or sold to the Company upon terms designed to assure payment of the Bonds by the Company in accordance with their terms and to provide security for the repayment thereof. At such meeting, the Authority found and determined that location of the Project in the City of Virginia Beach would be of benefit to the inhabitants of the City of Virginia Beach and the Commonwealth of Virginia.

3. The Project is an authorized and permitted facility under the Act.

4. When issued, the Bonds will be valid, legal and binding limited obligations of the Authority, payable solely from the revenues and receipts received from the leasing or sale of the Project to the Company and other security therefor. The Bonds will not constitute a debt or a pledge of the faith and credit of the Commonwealth of Virginia or any political subdivision thereof, including the Authority and the City of Virginia Beach, no taxing power of any political subdivision will be pledged to the payment of the Bonds, and the Bonds will not constitute an indebtedness within the meaning of any debt limitation or restriction.

WHEREFORE, the Authority prays that the Court grant a prompt hearing and enter a decree with the least possible delay pursuant to Section 15.1-213 et seq. of the Code of Virginia of 1950, as amended, that (1) all proceedings heretofore taken in connection with the authorization or issuance of the Bonds are legal and valid, (2) the Bonds may be issued to finance the Project, (3) assuming their due authorization, execution and delivery, the Bonds issued for the Project will be valid, legal and binding limited obligations of the Authority, and (4) such additional matters as may be specially requested by the parties or as the Court may deem meet.

VIRGINIA: In the Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach, a municipal corporation, Petitioner, Kittie Lamkin Jones, deceased, Louise L. Aikesson, Katherine L. Jones, heirs, devisees, successors in title and parties unknown who are made parties by general description of "parties unknown" and 0.019 acre of land/Defendants.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

In this proceeding the Petitioner seeks to acquire by condemnation fee simple title to certain pieces or parcels of land situated in the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia, for the construction and maintenance of that certain public street or highway known as Bonney Road Widening Project which property is shown and described more particularly in the petition and exhibits attached thereto on file in the office of the Clerk of this Court, to which reference is hereby made for a full and accurate description thereof; and for the appointment of commissioners to ascertain just compensation to the owners of any estate or interest in the property to be taken or affected as a result of the taking and use thereof by the Petitioner.

For such purposes the Petitioner will apply to the court, on the 12th day of March, 1981, at the court house thereof, Municipal Center, Virginia Beach, Virginia at 9:15 a.m., or as soon thereafter as counsel may be heard for the appointment of commissioners to ascertain just compensation as aforesaid.

And it appearing by affidavit filed according to law that the following owners are not residents of the State of Virginia, or their names and addresses are not known and that diligence has been used by and on behalf of the Petitioner to ascertain such names and addresses without effect: Louise L. Aikesson, Katherine L. Jones, heirs, devisees, successors in title of Kittie Lamkin Jones, deceased, and parties unknown it is ORDERED that the aforesaid owners do appear within ten (10) days after due publication of this order in the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia, and to do what is necessary to protect their interests; and it is FURTHER ORDERED that if any of the above named owners desire to assert any objection or defense to the taking or damaging of his property or to the jurisdiction of the Court to hear the case and to proceed with the appointment of commissioners he shall file his answer and grounds of defense designating the property in which he claims to be interested, the grounds of any objection or defense to the taking or damaging of his property or to the jurisdiction of the Court to hear the case and to proceed with the appointment of commissioners for the determination of just compensation.

Should any such owner fail to file his answer and grounds of defense as hereinabove provided, such failure shall not preclude the owner from appearing on the date set for the appointment of commissioners nor from presenting evidence as to valuation and damage nor from sharing in the award of just compensation according to his interest therein or otherwise protecting his rights, but such failure shall preclude such owner from any other defense by way of plea in bar, abatement or otherwise.

Teachers learn discipline on in-service day

By Greg Goldfarb,
Sun editor

Over 80 Virginia Beach elementary school teachers attended an in-service day discipline workshop held at Seatack Elementary School. The teachers were from the Seatack, and Linkhorn Park Elementary schools.

Seatack principal Mrs. Arthur Mae Lawson explains how Seatack and Linkhorn teachers got together on the third in-service day of the year.

"Each school is free to choose the program of activity to be held on each in-service day," Lawson said.

"Some of us went to the school board and asked if we schools could not join together for a particular activity. The board approved."

Discipline important

Lawson said the disciplinary workshop was chosen because discipline is so important in the classroom.

"Discipline is very important in the classroom," Lawson said, "but more importantly, heavier emphasis must be placed on classroom structure and basic skills. How teachers conduct themselves in the classroom, and how the students behave, affects us all."

"It is very important that when considering classroom discipline, you also consider a proper, and responsible analysis of the classroom problem."

Guest speaker Dunworth

Lawson said Beach teachers were exposed to the following principles, made by Dr. John Dunworth, Pensacola, Fla., at the workshop:

"The more time spent on instruction the greater the achievement gain."

"The greater the amount of parental involvement, the greater the achievement gain."

"High expectations on the part of the principal are associated with greater achievement."

"High teacher expectations are associated with high achievement."

"Higher achievement gains are more likely to occur in classrooms characterized by a high degree of structure, with teachers who are supportive."

"The use of positive feedback or reinforcement by teachers is associated with greater achievement."

"Higher achievement is promoted by the use of intra-group cooperation and inter-group competition in the classroom."

"The use of tutoring is related to achievement."

"Recitation promotes greater achievement gains."

"The use of 'factual' questions in class is associated with greater achievement."

Lawson said Dunworth, Dean of the College of Education at the University of West Florida, was a welcomed speaker because of his many experiences in the field of education.

His experience includes:

Dunworth has served as a classroom teacher, a vice-principal, principal, assistant superintendent and district superintendent of schools in California.

He is the immediate past president of George Peabody College for teachers where he served with distinction from 1974 until 1979, at which time Peabody merged with Vanderbilt University.

Prior to his assignment as president of Teachers College and Professor of Educational Administration at Ball State University, one of the largest teacher education institutions in the United States.

He also held the position of Superintendent of all Dependent Schools for the Department of Defense in the Pacific and Far East, a K-12 school system covering over 50 million square miles with an enrollment of 40,000 students and a staff of 1,700 professional personnel.

Dean Dunworth earned his B.A. degree in speech, and M.A. degree in education from the University of California, where he was an honor student. He received his Ed.D. in educational administration and supervision from the University of Southern California in 1959.

He has contributed to numerous local and national publications and is co-author of the booklet "Classroom Discipline" and the widely used series for teachers entitled "Discipline," which is published nationally every two weeks throughout each school year. He is also co-author of a supplementary textbook for elementary students, published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston, Inc.

H. S. Abernathy

Beach schools director resigns after 38 years

It has been announced today that H. S. Abernathy, director of the budget of Virginia Beach Public Schools, a 38-year veteran of public school service, has retired, effective Jan. 31, 1981.

In announcing the retirement, Virginia Beach superintendent of schools E. E. Brickell called Abernathy "the quintessential public servant—knowledgeable, dedicated, and thoroughly professional. His service to the public schools of the Commonwealth," said Brickell, "is marked by excellence in every respect."

Cited for excellence

Abernathy came to Virginia Beach in 1968; from the superintendency of then Nansemond County (now Suffolk) Schools. Prior to that time, he served as director of instruction in Montgomery County. A graduate of Randolph-Macon College, he holds advanced degrees from Peabody College and from Old Dominion University.

It is expected that Abernathy will be succeeded by Dr. Fred Benham, currently Director of the Budget in Norfolk Public Schools. Benham is a graduate of Washington and Lee University, with higher degrees from Old Dominion University, William and Mary, and the University of Virginia.

At Virginia Wesleyan

Beach college offers new educational program this Summer for Beach residents over 60 years old

A unique Beach educational program called Elderhostel will be offered at Virginia Wesleyan College this summer during the week of July 19-25, according to Dr. William M. Wilson, dean of the college.

Elderhostel, designed for adults 60 years or older, is a nationwide program begun in New Hampshire in the summer of 1975 on the campuses of five colleges, with a total enrollment of 200 pioneer Elderhostelers. By the summer of 1980 the enrollment had increased to over 20,000 participants at 330 colleges and universities in all 50 states and two Canadian provinces.

"The purpose of Elderhostel is to provide older, or retired, citizens with opportunities to reach out for new experiences, combining the adventure of hosteling with the pursuit of knowledge," explains Dean Wilson.

During the week-long program in July (19-25), Virginia Wesleyan will offer non-credit college-level courses taught by regular faculty members. There will be no exams, no grades, and no required homework. "There will be a wide variety of extra-curricular activities, recreational opportunities, and field trips offered," adds Dean Wilson. The fee for one week, which includes tuition, campus housing, and meals, will be approximately $140 per week.

Three courses offered

The three courses that will be offered this summer are:

- "Whatever Happened

- to Common Decency? The Moral Basis of American Political Life," a study of the connection between law and morality, in light of the dramatic moral and social changes over the past two generations, taught by Dr. Edmund Del Carlson, associate professor of political science;

- "Treading Lightly on this Planet: Environmental Ethics," which explores the question "Ought we to use nature solely for our own benefit or do we have responsibilities for future generations?" with Dr. Lawrence D. Hultgren, associate professor of philosophy; and

- "Bacteria: Friend or Foe?" a study of the preparation of certain foods, using good bacteria, and methods of protecting other foods from spoilage caused by bad bacteria, taught by Dr. Betty Lou Jefferson, associate professor of biochemistry.

Commenting on the enthusiastic response elder citizens have given to the Elderhostel program,

Dean Wilson says "We are looking forward to this adventure. Virginia Wesleyan, now that it has matured, is able to reach out to the community with new programs. This is one of many new programs that Virginia Wesleyan will offer in the near future."

For further information contact Jesse H. Fanshaw, VWC director of community relations and coordinator for the Elderhostel program. (461-3232, ext. 293)

College basketball

Gallagher makes team

Pam Gallagher, a Beach freshman, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Gallagher, is a member of the 1980-81 Virginia Wesleyan College women's basketball team. Pam, a graduate of First Colonial High School, is averaging five points from her guard spot for the AIAW Division III Lady Marlin.

"Pam handles the ball well and is a good shooter," says Wesleyan coach Rick Banta.

The Lady Marlin

currently have a disappointing 1-8 overall record. They went 20-3 last year, but graduation and injuries have depleted the team to only seven players.

Public education is the key to suicide prevention

By Greg Goldfarb,
Sun editor

"The most effective way of curbing the Virginia Beach suicide rate," according to Skip Santti, emergency services coordinator, comprehensive mental health services, Virginia Beach, "is through public education."

The Virginia Beach suicide rate, about two a month, parallels the national rate. But, according to Santti, suicides can be prevented.

"While it's true that a person who really wishes to kill himself will ultimately do so," he said, "most who don't succeed didn't really want to complete the act to begin with."

"Most suicide attempters leave clues before their attempts. For example, they may go through stages of helplessness, hopelessness, and helplessness before killing themselves. To a keen observer, these traits can be detected, and may result in the saving of a life."

Better to overreact

Santti said, if clues are observed (pre-suicidal clues were discussed in the first part of this Sun series), it is better to overreact than to underreact.

"If a person has ever talked about suicide, or actually attempted it before," he said, "you must pay extra special attention to the personal movements and actions of that person."

"It is always wise to overreact in this type of situation, as opposed to underreacting. The potential suicide victim must be talked to delicately, and with sincere concern and compassion. The potential suicide victim must realize that the factors affecting and surrounding their life are not as terrible and tragic as that person may make them out to be."

For their own good

If a person is suicidal, and refuses help, he or she may be legally committed in a mental institution for psychiatric help.

"It may seem harsh to commit a person to an institution against their will, but it is for their own good," Santti said. "Usually the person needs time to sort things out for themselves."

"But before anyone is committed, by our agency, they are screened, and we search for other possible options which might be suggested to them before commitment is carried through."

Santti explained that before a person may be committed, a civil warrant must first be secured.

"In a case of committing someone to an institution against their will," he said, "a court order must first be obtained from the civil court. The parties must next appear before a judge. But before any actions are taken, we in the emergency services department should be sent the person to see if we can offer any services or ideas which might keep the person from commitment. This type of procedure, which is perpetuated with the assistance of the Beach judicial system, is very progressive."

Santti said that 658 people were screened in 1979, resulting in 115 commitments. In 1980, screened cases numbered 608, resulting in 127 commitments.

Emergency medical services

While there are various agencies in the area which handle mental illness cases exclusively, both public and private, Santti said emergency procedures are employed by several local facilities.

"Virginia Beach's comprehensive mental health emergency services are free, and very efficient," he said. "We are available 24 hours a day, and will not refuse anyone for services. However, if it is not an emergency situation, and the person is not from an economically deficient family, we will usually refer the person to a private agency."

"Secondly, we suggest that the Crisis Intervention service in Portsmouth may also be contacted 24 hours in emergency situations."

"After a suicide attempt has been made, we advise that the person go to the emergency room of a local hospital for a checkup. Although there may be no visible sign of harm, there could be other injuries."

Santti said his department also works closely with the Virginia Beach Police Department in counseling suicide attempt cases.

"We receive a daily report from the Virginia Beach police everyday," he said, "informing us of the names and addresses of those who attempted suicide in Virginia Beach."

"We actively pursue the names by telephone and by letter; advising the person that we are available for free and private crisis counseling. Many times those people really need help, or just someone to talk with. They're usually really confused and scared. And worst, there is then, more than ever, the likelihood that the person will attempt suicide again."

"Beach residents must remember, that those who attempt suicide need not be cast out as social undesirables. They need to be taken into the community and urged to become an active working part of it. People who may have a suicidal tendency need to feel that their lives, and circumstances surrounding their lives are important and that worth living. They must not give up. If any questions or problems develop, please call a crisis intervention service."

Editors note: This article concludes a three part Sun series on suicides in Virginia Beach. The Sun acknowledges the cooperation of the Virginia Beach Department of Comprehensive Mental Health Services for its assistance in carrying through this series.

Experts say no

Are suicides news, or not?

By Greg Goldfarb,
Sun editor

"Much to our regret, the article was published," said Beach police Detective S. W. Summerlin in reference to a recent suicide. "We went around and around with the daily papers but received no satisfaction."

Just as there are no solid answers as to why Beach residents kill themselves, there is no definite answer as to whether suicides should or should not be reported in the newspapers.

"Initial suicide reports are a matter of public record," Summerlin said, "but usually the report does not give much information; and that's because there is no real purpose in exposing the facts unless some kind of foul play was involved."

"We do feel that if it is a public situation, we have a responsibility to let the public know of wrong doings. But suicides are personal; they affect families intensely, and they need not be publicized."

"We do not prosecute attempters, so there is no need for publicity there either; those cases are sent to the Beach social service for counseling and follow-up."

Santti agrees

Skip Santti, emergency services, comprehensive mental health services, Virginia Beach, agrees that suicide publicity is of no particular value to the community.

"I see no intrinsic value to reporting suicides," Santti said. "The only benefit that can be offered is in the way of community education articles which alert local residents to the problem and attempts to educate the community in terms of preventive procedures."

Santti said reporting suicides may also lead to other serious problems.

"Sometimes people may identify with someone who kills themselves," he said. "I know from my experiences in State hospitals, that the knowledge of a suicide can lead to hysteria, and possibly increase the chances of more suicides depending on the actual circumstances."

"Reporting isolated suicides in the newspaper does not serve either the community nor the surviving family."

Rapes are acts of violence!

By Greg Goldfarb,
Sun editor

"Virginia Beach women who have never been raped say, 'oh, it'll never happen to me,'" laments Virginia Beach police sergeant E. E. Rorrer.

Goldfarb

"And those who are raped say, 'I can't believe it happened to me!'"

Unfortunately, rape is a reality for many Beach women. Since 1970 the reported Beach rape rate has jumped from 24 to 105 in 1980. But according to Rorrer, the rising rate does not necessarily indicate an increase in actual rapes.

"You can attribute the rise in the Beach rape rate," he explained, "to several factors.

"For example, the Beach police department has made stronger efforts in the last few years to offer rape prevention programs to both the community and to students. This has resulted in a better educated Beach community, consequently, more people are now apt to report rape now more than ever before.

"A rise in the rape rate may also result from the fact that a woman's previous personal and sexual experiences may no longer be offered to the court as evidence, either for or against the woman.

"And thirdly, rape no longer has such a negative image it once had. Now more people understand that rape is a crime of violence. The smartly dressed woman now is seldom accused of 'asking for it' just by the way she is dressed."

Beach lady raped

Attesting to the fact that rape is an act of violence and not of sexual enjoyment or opportunity is 28 year Beach resident Virginia Holland.

A 28 year Beach resident, and a Chesapeake social worker currently in pursuit of her doctoral degree in agency counseling, Virginia, 47, was raped 18 months ago by a 17 year old Black male. Virginia lives in the Southern end of Virginia Beach with her husband, Gene. She has four adult children and four grandchildren. Her rape occurred in July, 1979, shortly before dawn after Gene, a 15 year Beach teacher, had gone to work.

Virginia granted the Sun an exclusive interview in hopes that other Beach females will stand tall and report the rape as she did.

Her account of her rape is as follows:

"My husband had known this group of teenage boys who lived around our neighborhood for years," she said. "They were former students of his and he used to give them odd jobs to do around our house in the Summer. In addition to teaching, he also worked about 10 acres of corn; that's when the services of the boys were most needed. Gene had become friends with them, as had I. Sometimes he took them fishing, and did other recreational things with them in the Summer.

"I'm a widow after a 25 year marriage, and the Summer the rape occurred was the first Summer Gene and I had been married. We've been married now for three years. I had always been a little uneasy about the boys working around here, but since my husband knew them and I was acquainted with social work I went along with him and supported his relationship with them.

"I had come to know the boy, Carl, who raped me. He used to talk to me about personal things, like his pregnant girlfriend and wanting to run away to his grandmother's house to get away from the tension and pressures of his every day life.

"I used to notice that Carl would pick on his little brothers and I'd ask him why he did it. We'd discuss it, informally, and never much else was said. This proves most rapists know their victim before the rape is committed.

"I saw Carl in January before the rape. He was hitchhiking and I picked him up. I asked how he had been. He replied that everything was fine, and he was even making good grades in school. I gave him a ride to his sister's house and never saw him again until that Summer, one week before the rape.

"Nothing had occurred thus far out of the ordinary and one Saturday, Gene received a telephone call and left me alone sleeping to tend to it. If it had been a weekday, I would have been up when he left. I would have been on my way to William and Mary for my classes.

"There's too much to live for to die . . . even if I was being raped and defiled"—Holland

"Well, that morning, I remember Gene getting up and going out to work. I heard him say 'goodbye' about 5:15 a.m. The next thing I knew, I woke up with a pillow being brutally shoved against my face.

"At this point, I was scared. I didn't know who it was. I was trying to overcome my fear so I wouldn't panic. I thought for a moment that it was my husband playing a cruel joke on me. I regret very deeply even considering that idea now; but then I was in a way actually hoping it was him playing around and not something far worse happening to me.

"My hands were under my face, that's the way I sleep, and I tried to say 'honey, please stop it.' But my voice was muffled because of the pillow. The more I struggled, the harder he pushed down on my face with it. I forced my hands apart to allow myself to breathe. I began thinking now that I was going to die. But I didn't want to die. I thought about my children and my grandchildren. There was too much to live for to die now; even if I was being raped and defiled. I know many women would disagree with me. Many women say, 'Death before Dishonor,' but not I. I want to live; and in the situation I was in, nothing could have been more precious than living. I didn't want to die by the hands of a rapist.

"I was not in control of my life then; and that in itself was hard to accept because I am usually a very strong and self sufficient woman.

"But this act of rape and the degradation that accompanies it reduced me to degraded, snivelling woman, lying there begging for my life. Finally I decided to give in to his domination. Maybe then he'd leave me alone. I had struggled so much at that point that I was exhausted. I still didn't know who was so brutally handling me, but I lifted my hands for a minute and saw a black arm. I laid in the bed then like an iceberg. 'Let him get it over with' I thought to myself. Maybe then he won't kill me, which usually results after a rape, and he'll let me go. Then he got undressed. The first words he said to me was 'move your leg.' I didn't so he moved it for me. I remember having no feeling in my body at that point. It was like I was removed from the situation and was standing from a distance looking on. He climaxed very soon, and I tried again to struggle free. Then he put a knife to be throat and told me to stay still. There was still pressure on my face, but I could feel him sitting on the edge of the bed. I considered again if I could have gotten up and gotten away from him. But we live 650 feet into the woods and I doubted if I could get out of the house and away from him. No one was around and I was praying that Gene would come home for a cup of coffee or something. I heard Carl begin tearing something; I realized he was tearing something to tie me up with. As he did that, he kept the knife edge on my wrist. I asked him why he had to tie me up. He said he wanted to tie me up; he used the towel not only to tie me up, but also to clean the blood from a wound he had received from the knife. As he tied me up, I remember what I had learned in some rape prevention classes and tensed all my muscles as he tied. This way I could relax them later and give myself some slack to work with in trying to free myself. The last thing he said to me was, 'I will kill you if you scream or tell anyone what happened; you hear?' It was that 'you hear' that made certain who the rapist was. I was sure now that it was Carl and not one of his brothers.

"Finally I heard him descend the stairs. I waited to hear the front door close before I got up. After I heard it close, I went to the balcony and watched him jump off the porch and run towards the corn field. He had a brown towel around his face; the same towel he had torn to tie me up with. I watched him for as long as I could so I could remember every article of clothing he wore for future positive identification. I ran downstairs, still tied and half naked, and called the police. The lady who answered was very nice and very calm. She told me to stay on the phone until an officer arrived. This way the police could testify that I had not left the scene or cleaned myself after the rape. This is very important and one of the biggest mistakes women make after being raped. They immediately go clean themselves. But what they're doing is washing away the evidence needed to convict a rapist. I ended up staying on the phone five or six minutes, crying hysterically the whole time. The police arrived very promptly. The officer first went to get a daughter of mine who lived nearby, so she could stay with me while the officer went to get Gene.

"It turned out that we had a good case against Carl. Gene had seen him prior to the rape hanging around outside the house. Gene figured that he had just come to work early. After the rape, Carl went directly to the corn field to work as if nothing had happened.

"All this time my husband didn't know what had happened. When the police cars came, however, and the sirens began sounding Carl fled on his bicycle to his home. The police followed him there. Carl came out dressed in different clothes. But the police went into the home and found the exact clothes I had described along with the bloodied towel.

"Carl was subsequently tried as a juvenile, and because of all the evidence, including the humiliating medical examination I went through, he was convicted. The only problem is, after only 18 months in detention, Carl will be back on the streets in a couple of weeks: March 1."

Hospital, courtroom humiliation

Holland said the hospital scene and courtroom experience were almost as degrading as the rape.

"It's not that the hospital personnel were discourteous or anything," she said, "it's the things they do to you which is hard to believe until it happens to you.

"At the hospital," she said, "they scraped under my fingernails. They pulled my head and pubic hair for testing. They took slide smears of my rectal and genital areas. I really couldn't believe then the things they did were necessary. But my logic told me that these things had to be done if there was to be any chance to convict Carl. The hospital people also came at me with two long needles to protect me from VD. They asked me if I was capable of becoming pregnant. I told them no. The whole experience was terrible, but necessary.

The hospital people scraped under my nails; pulled my head and pubic hairs and took smears . . . The whole experience was terrible, but necessary"—Holland

"In the court room at the preliminary hearing, I was subject to more embarrassment and humiliation. I knew I would have to describe the details of the rape. But it never dawned on me that I had to actually say that 'his penis then entered my vagina.' Without those exact words as testimony, Carl may not have been convicted. Gene also had to give a sperm specimen for confirmation that his and Carl's sperm type were different. He was convicted, but I can't believe he will be out so soon. I'm scared. But Gene just built a new house for us and we don't intend to relocate; even though we were called by the city and advised that it might not be a bad idea because Carl was getting out of jail. Isn't that something; the rape victim must hide from the rapist."

The entire family suffers

Holland said not only is rape a tragedy for the victim, but also for the family, particularly the husband.

"I saw Gene go through all the stages a husband goes through after his wife is raped," she said. "I know because I had researched them in the past.

"First Gene blamed Carl and he used to sit around and say things like, 'I wish I would see him hitchhiking again. If I did, it would be his last.' Next, Gene blamed himself. He'd say things like, 'my God, why did I leave you alone?' Finally, he blamed me. That was the hardest thing for me to cope with. Gene couldn't understand why I couldn't get away from the rapist. I explained that he was young and strong, and I had exhausted myself. It really hurt me to have to defend myself for being raped."

The power theme

Holland, who holds a B.A. degree in psychology; a masters degree in agency counseling; and is in pursuit of a Ph.D. in agency counseling with a concentration in marriage and family counseling, said there is a common denominator in all the rape cases she has studied.

"The one thing in common that most rapist have," she said, "is a drive for power. The rapist desires to overpower their victim. They need some outlet to prove themselves."

For this reason, Holland says rape is a crime of violence and not one of opportunity or sex.

"The youngest reported rape case is that of a six month old baby," she said. "The oldest reported case involves a woman 94 years old. Obviously sexual desires should not be the motive for rape in these cases."

RAPE CHECKLIST:

Rape is not pretty, nor civilized. Yet, it happens everyday to women, Black and White, of varying walks of life. Little can be done to undo a rape, but measures may be undertaken to curtail the rape rate and increase the offense convictions.

Figures indicate that only one out of seven rapes are reported. If the other six cases were reported, and following checklist is adhered to, rape rates across the nation could decline.

• DO NOT wash yourself or your clothes after a rape. Do not douche, wipe after urination, comb your hair, or even put on make-up. You could be destroying valuable evidence of the attack.

• DO NOT touch or remove anything at the scene of the crime.

• DO call the police immediately. This is important if you are to be helped and for your attacker to be caught.

• DO give the police an accurate description of the attacker.

• DO call a friend if you wish or a local rape crisis center for support.

When I was just a young girl I learned that I was chosen to be God's servant. I found myself being drawn to advise and pray for the troubled souls around me. Miraculously the sick were healed and I was able to bring peace and happiness to even the most tormented. I have since humbly devoted myself to the joy of His service and have helped thousands. The sick have been cured and I have brought success in business and love to people who believed they were born to failure and suffering.

Through me, let God cleanse your soul. Let me lift evil influences from your life. I can foresee danger and name enemies. I will keep the path of your life clear and triumphant. Immediate results are guaranteed.

Four Beach nursing homes to 'Rock and Roll' for American heart fund

By Bernie Bonuccelli,
Special to the Sun
Virginia Beach will never be the same after the residents of four area nursing homes prove that you don't have to be young to

"rock 'n roll".

The residents, staff and friends of the four nursing homes are hosting Rock 'n Roll Jamborees in their individual facilities during February and March to help raise money for the valuable research and education programs sponsored by the American Heart Association.

Last year, 72 nursing homes statewide raised over $67,000 for the American Heart Association. This year, at least 87 nursing homes will host Jamborees to help reach the 1981 fund-raising goal of $80,000.

Community participation and support is welcomed at any of the local Jamborees. The Jamborees are designed to make nursing home residents feel like a vital part of their communities as they work to benefit a worthy cause. If you have the time or the dime to spare, call the activity director at any of the nursing homes listed below.

Auditions in Kempsville

By Debbie Devine,
Special to the Sun

February is a great month to get into a production for the Performing Arts Unit of the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation.

The All-Cities' Ballet Company is holding auditions for their Spring production of Hans Christian Anderson's "Red Shoes". Experienced ballet dancers of any age, both male and female, are needed. The auditions will be held on Saturday, Feb. 14 from 2 til 5 p.m. and Sunday, Feb. 15 from 5 til 9 p.m. in the Virginia Beach Recreation Center/Kempsville Theatre. For further information, contact the performing arts unit at 495-1892 or 467-4884.

The Storybook Theatre Company is going to renovate its Spring touring production. Instead of the usual format, a real oldfashioned Melo-Drama, complete with heroine, villain and dastardly deeds, will be touring a limited number of performances during the Spring and Summer. The auditions will be at the Virginia Beach Recreation Center/Kempsville Theatre, Thursday, Feb. 19 and Friday, Feb. 20 from 7 til 10 P.M. Students from grades eight through 12 are welcome to audition, but they should have some previous training or experience.

1000 mile sailing race

1981 Worrell 1000 plans now underway; Florida to Beach

By James L. Manning
Special to the Sun

On Saturday, May 16, approximately 30 Hobie Sail Boats will take-off from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. and begin a race in the Ocean of 1000 miles to the finish line at Virginia Beach. The race is the "Worrell 1000."

The entries are by invite only, and contestants, not only sign-up from the United States but from other countries. The Hobie Teams (two sailors at any one time, with a reserve sailor following the Hobie on land from checkpoint to checkpoint) will check-in at eight checkpoints along the route to Virginia Beach. It's a grueling event that tests the motivation, skills and endurance capacities of the human beings involved.

"The 'Worrell 1000' started in 1974 with only two entries! Last year the winning team in 1980 finished the race in four and one-half days (that's day and night!). Usually big businesses and some small sponsor the teams, and much money and preparation is involved.

Local entry from New York

The Glenora Wine Cellars, located on Seneca Lake, Dundee, NY is sponsoring a team for the 1981 "Worrell 1000". They have hired a World Champion Hobie Sail Boat "Skipper" from Hawaii, named Dean Froome. Also, two other experienced sailors will compliment the team! This is a first-time entry for Glenora Wine Cellars. They have a uniquely-designed Sail for their entered boat, and this will be displayed at their "Kick-off" Ceremony to be held at the end of March, 1981, at the Seneca Lake location of Glenora Wine Cellars, Dundee, NY. Also, the Glenora Wine Cellars will introduce one of their new wines at the "Kick-off" Ceremony. The purpose of the "Kickoff" ceremony is to give publicity for the local entry.

The race is 1000 miles in the Atlantic Ocean. The Glenora Wine Cellars team will have a seven person "pit crew" which will follow the progress of their Sail Boat from checkpoint to checkpoint. The "pit crews" also must be well-prepared and ready for any situation and/or emergency. Every safety procedure is established and implemented for this grueling race.

There is no other Hobie Sail Boat race like this in the world!

Delegate McClanan reports

Assembly efforts aimed at water

By Glenn B. McClanan,
Member, House of Delegates,
Special to the Sun

The 1981 Session of the Virginia General Assembly is moving rapidly to complete its work before the Feb. 21 adjournment. This week is the final period for both the House of Delegates and the Senate to act on legislation introduced by its own members.

The House of Delegates has passed a measure this week which would set in motion procedures for creating a spending limit on state government. The proposal, which has been described as "an insurance policy against excessive spending" comes after two years of study of the various proposals made during the past two sessions of the legislature. The proposed change requires that the rate of growth in state government spending be no larger than the rate of growth in the State's economy. Also passed in the House this week, with my support, and sent to the Senate was a bill which cuts in half the sales tax on food.

A large portion of our efforts during this session have been directed toward achieving an immediate solution to our water emergency, and also toward reaching long-term solutions to the problems Virginia Beach and many other localities are experiencing with water supplies. A measure which I sponsored directing the State Water Control Board to prepare water management programs for each river basin in the state has received preliminary approval in the House of Delegates. This is the essential first step toward resolving our water problems on a long-term basis. The House Committee on Counties, Cities and Towns has passed and sent to the House for approval the Emergency Water Bill, which I also sponsored, to clarify the Governor's powers to act in cases of water emergency. This bill provides a mechanism whereby localities may apply to the State Water Control Board for assistance. If the Water Control Board agrees that an emergency does exist, the Governor may then appoint a special committee which shall have the duty and authority to locate available supplies and expedite transfer to the locality under emergency.

We very much appreciate receiving the advice and views of Virginia Beach citizens on matters being considered by the legislature. You may contact me at my office at the Capitol through Saturday, February 21:

SUNshine Girl

Kirk enjoys teaching Beach kids

A sixth grade teacher at North Landing Elementary School, SUNshine Girl Beth Kirk is married to Ray Kirk, an instructor at the Old Donation School for the Gifted:

"I really enjoy teaching Virginia Beach students," Beth said. "I particularly like teaching them about environmental sciences. It seems that at their age, they are always fascinated with insects, and other living organisms."

Beth's hobbies include gardening, hiking, jogging, tennis, and traveling. She enjoys dinner at The Sea Crest restaurant and dancing at Pascals.

"I like the Beach night life," she said, "and I also like living close to the ocean."

Spending their sixth year in Virginia Beach, Beth and Ray live in the Pungo section of the city. They have two dogs, three camellian, and a newly acquired cat.

Ferguson

Ferguson arrives at the Beach

Gail Ferguson, internationally known parapsychologist and hypnotist, will arrive in Virginia Beach on Sunday, Feb. 22 to begin a speaking engagement following her appearance on NBC's "Newsweek Magazine" with David Brinkley.

The show will air on a local television station on Friday, Feb. 13 at 10 p.m.

Ferguson has gained recognition throughout the United States and England for her skills in assisting police departments with unsolved homicides. Not only does she help solve these cases, but she is able to recognize the development of potential criminal acts and suggest appropriate avoidance intervention. Her successes in police work have been written up in several publications.

Due to her extensive education in psychology, and a psychic sensitivity, she is much sought after by special interest groups for workshops and seminars, as well as assistance in special projects.

"We're very fortunate to have a person with her ability and background to share her knowledge and experiences with us in an entertaining, as well as informative manner," said Hope Owens, local spokeswoman for Ferguson.

"I'm very excited about coming to Virginia Beach! I've heard such wonderful things about it," Ferguson exclaimed in a recent telephone conversation from her home in Riverside, California.

Upon her return to California from the East Coast, she will begin preparations for a two week engagement at The Olympia in London, England.

In addition to lecturing and private consultations, Ferguson will be making appearances on local television and radio.

Concessions made

"Our Own" spokesman announces cessation

By Jim Early,
Special to the Sun

The Unitarian Universalist Gay Community (UUGC) of Norfolk hereby announces that it will discontinue legal action against the City of Virginia Beach to restore distribution of "Our Own Community Press" in the City's public library system.

Previously the UUGC had maintained that the City's denial of distribution privileges to "Our Own" constituted unequal treatment because it was based solely on the fact that "Our Own" is a gay publication.

However, the City's preliminary arguments in the case have convinced the UUGC that the general policy change governing present treatment of "Our Own" does indeed apply to all unsolicited community periodicals and not just to "Our Own." Since the UUGC has insisted from the beginning on nothing more nor less than equal treatment, it therefore is satisfied with the present library distribution policy and no longer feels that the policy violates its right to free expression.

The UUGC is extremely pleased with two major concessions made by the City in its arguments. First, the City has conceded the right of "Our Own" to remain in the library as a part of the unsolicited materials collection, in keeping with the library's policy of equal treatment for such publications.

In addition, the City has conceded that all future policy changes regarding unsolicited materials in the library will be made without regard to content, so that gay publications will be accepted under the same terms that apply to non-gay publications. The UUGC considers this in itself to be a major victory.

Although pleased with these concessions, the UUGC nonetheless objects to a number of unwarranted and totally unreasonable demands made by the City in preparing its case, especially its request that the court order the UUGC to disclose the names and addresses of its members and of all those who subscribe to "Our Own." The UUGC wishes to announce publicly that if circumstances had warranted continuing with its case in court, it would have resisted this and other attempts by the City to intimidate or harass UUGC members and supporters.

Cultural, educational

Performing Arts events for February slated

Avoid insecticides

Beach farm management affect Beach farmers

Virginia Beach farmers may avoid needless insecticide sprays and save money through better management decisions.

The Integrated Pest Management (IPM) program developed at Virginia Tech was designed to help Beach farmers make better decisions about treating pests by combining the usual chemical methods with biological and cultural methods. The program, started in 1974 with 1,700 acres and some IPM practices, is now being used on approximately 100,000 acres throughout the state at a savings of about $700,000 in 1979, and a reduction of 90,000 pounds of insecticide. The statewide program is being conducted by Robert McPherson in Warsaw and John Smith in Holland. Both men are Virginia Tech extension specialists.

Exciting program

"The most exciting aspect to this program," said William A. Allen, overall IPM coordinator and associate professor of entomology at Virginia Tech, "is the interdisciplinary approach to managing pests." The objective of the IPM program is to use all suitable, compatible and environmentally sound methods to maintain the disease or infestation at levels that are safe, healthy and economical.

"When we started the program, we surveyed farmers and found they were treating their fields when their neighbors treated theirs or when the (chemical treatment) plane was in the area. They were not basing their treatment on firm scientific reasons. Often the farmers were spraying too early, too much or spraying when it was unnecessary," Allen said. "For the first time, under this program, the farmers are sampling insects and are making sound, efficient management decision." The programs use scouting methods such as insect counts to determine when an infestation reaches a level which will have an economic impact and eventually the program will determine environmental and health impacts.

The current farmer-paid, scouting program consists of about 8,000 acres of soybean crops, 600 of alfalfa, 1,000 of fruit crops and 400 of peanuts, tobacco and other crops. "The increase in acres and farms in the program is one indication of its success, but another indication is that the farmers are willing to pay for the programs and to pay the scout who does the insect counts," Allen said.

Some training involved

The program involves

some training because it applies combined knowledge of methods familiar to farmers such as crop rotation and the manipulation of row spacing with new scientific finding about pests, beneficial predators and parasites, pesticides and other related insect control strategies, Allen said.

"For example, we know soybeans planted in narrow rows have fewer corn ear worms than soybeans planted in wide rows. So by planting narrow rows and by monitoring insect population, farmers can make better management decisions. Since you cannot rely on narrow rows alone, a scout can determine whether or not insecticide is needed," Allen said. "Using a cultural method such as this may prevent the need to treat the crop with insecticides. The scout prevents the farmer from spraying too early and ultimately saves the farmer money."

"An example of effective biological control being used in Virginia involves a small wasp from India that preys on the Mexican bean beetle, a major pest of soybeans," Allen said. If the wasps are released in the field after the beetles' eggs have hatched, the wasp attacks the larvae (spiny back), stinging and killing them. "In recent years, the wasp has significantly reduced Mexican bean beetle damage in Virginia," Allen said. "Working with farmers we hope to incorporate more crops and more acres in the program," Allen added.

Affected by surroundings

Beachers keeping comfortable psychologically

By Doris Campbell,
Special to the Sun

How comfortable you are at 68 degrees may have more to do with your surroundings than the temperature.

The color and texture of furniture, carpets, draperies and even painted or wallpapered interior walls can have a strong psychological effect on how comfortable a person is at lower temperatures.

For example, a number of studies have shown that people actually feel warmer in rooms painted in warm colors. Even with two rooms, identical in every way except the colors on the walls, the temperature can be kept comfortable at a lower level in the "warmer" colored room.

Another important factor in creating a comfortable home environment is the humidity. The more humidity there is in a house, the easier it is to keep the thermostat at 68 degrees. Humidified air also is healthier as heat dries out air and can result in respiratory problems.

If you can't afford a humidifier, try setting pans of water by heat sources and letting the water evaporate as warmer air passes over the container. House plants are another good way of putting moisture back into a closed house.

While surveying your home in comfort, make sure large furniture items or curtains are not in front of heat outlets.

Pruning lecture also

Growing backyard orchard to be library subject

Greg Lonigan, a horticulturist with the Virginia Extension Service, will use a lecture and slide presentation to describe how to start and care for a small backyard orchard on Wednesday, Feb. 18, at 7 p.m. at the Oceanfront Branch of the Virginia Beach Public Library.

To help handicapped

Beach organization seeking volunteers

Community Alternatives, Inc. and the Virginia Beach Adult Activity Center are looking for volunteers to assist in training mentally handicapped adults. The Community Alternatives, Inc. and the Adult Activity Center have a joint community program which provides training and employment services to mentally handicapped adults residing in Virginia Beach.

The program is looking for volunteers who have an interest in working with handicapped adults or who are pursuing careers in the special education field. Volunteers will have the opportunity to participate in a variety of training activities which focus on preparing the adults for employment and independent living. On the job training will be supplemented with additional in-service training.

The facility is located in the Human Resources Building, 3432 Virginia Beach Boulevard in Virginia Beach.

For further information contact Ms. Jill White at 486-6268 or 486-1382.

This is the second in a series of programs presented by the library in cooperation with the Mental Health Association of Tidewater. The 1½ hour session is free and open to persons of all ages. Registration is required. To register, call the library at 428-4113 by Wednesday, Feb. 26.

The Oceanfront Branch Library is located at 1811 Arctic Avenue.

Physical fitness at Great Neck

Betty Holland will discuss "Physical Fitness as a Way of Life" at the Great Neck Branch of the Virginia Beach Public Library on Thursday, Feb. 26, at 7:30 p.m.

The two hour lecture and demonstration will emphasize aerobic exercise as a method of building strength and endurance through a healthy cardiovascular system. Exercises will be recommended that can be part of everyday living.

Interested adults may register for the free program by calling the library at 481-6094. The Great Neck Library is located at 1251 Bayne Drive in the Hilltop area.

Water should be available to tourists

Beach may advert season tragedy

By Lee Cahill,
Sun city council correspondent

Agreements with four neighboring jurisdictions will furnish Virginia Beach with 9 1/4 million gallons of water a day by mid-June.

With this additional water and the approximately 16 million gallons a day allocation from the City of Norfolk, prospects for meeting the city's summer needs of about close to 30 million gallons a day look better than they have for months. The city also expects to have some of its own wells producing up to four million gallons a day by July.

Negotiations which have been going on for months between the City of Virginia Beach and Isle of Wight County and Southampton County culminated Monday afternoon in Council action authorizing the city manager to sign contracts with the two jurisdictions each to sell up to four million gallons a day in well water to Virginia Beach. Council also approved a contract with the City of Chesapeake to sell the Beach up to one million gallons of water a day, and more if available, from the Northwestern River Treatment Plant.

Since the raw water from Southampton and Isle of Wight, which will be purchased for 15 cents per 1000 gallons, will have to be processed through Norfolk's transmission and treatment facilities. Council also authorized city manager George L. Hanbury to contract with Norfolk to permit this.

Governing bodies in Norfolk, Isle of Wight and Southampton have to approve the contracts before the water agreements become a reality.

Mayor J. Henry McCoy Jr. said that the city is continuing to consider Suffolk as another source but had to defer negotiations until the differences over water between Norfolk and Suffolk are resolved.

McCoy said that the city asked for ten-year contracts but has a seven-year contract with Isle of Wight and a ten-year contract with Southampton.

The city will draw from one well in each community. Virginia Beach will have to pay for the well construction, the wells will be owned by the counties and that the estimated $2 million cost will be paid from Revenue Sharing and general obligation bonds for Community Development funds.

Council also endorsed a resolution supporting the Governor's "Southeastern Water Supply agreement which calls for regional cooperation in the management of water resources for southeastern Virginia.

Action on the resolutions was taken following an executive session. McCoy said that well construction will probably start next weekend with completion set for June 15.

Under terms of the contracts, Virginia Beach will have the use of the water during times of emergency water demand and at any other time when mutually agreed to by the parties. The counties reserve the right to use up to 10 percent of the daily production if it becomes necessary.

Virginia Beach has also agreed to place in escrow $50,000 for each county to compensate property owners whose wells are affected adversely.

The Chesapeake contract is contingent upon Norfolk's formal action to allow Chesapeake water to be introduced into the Virginia Beach city system. Norfolk's present contract with the Beach forbids this.

The Chesapeake contract is for 60 days from the date of execution, renewal automatically at the end of the contract period until terminated by either party. Chesapeake will change the same rate it charges its other customers which is now $1.71 per 1000 gallons.

Beach council wants to tighten building codes; promote better fire protection

Virginia Beach wants to strengthen the state building code, the Building Officials Code Administration (BOCA) to insure better fire protection in high rise buildings, especially those housing senior citizens.

At an informal meeting Monday afternoon, City Council authorized city manager George L. Hanbury to discuss changes with the BOCA Board which administers the uniform state-wide building code.

In a report to Council, Fire Chief Harry E. Diezel recommended for senior citizen housing installation of sprinklers, installation of smoke detectors, refuge/safety areas and better exterior access for fire equipment.

Hanbury said he would like to see the measures applied to all new hotels as well.

The report states that sprinklers are not mandates by BOCA in some situations because elderly occupants are expected to be ambulatory. Many of the residents start out ambulatory, the report states, but eventually they become non-ambulatory. Sprinkler systems provide an active check to either extinguish or minimize fire development.

Although smoke detectors are required in all residential settings, the report states, the Code mandates only local notification while the Fire Department would like to have the detectors wired to both a central and external alarm monitoring facility.

The Fire Department would also like to have refuge/safety areas in buildings above two stories, especially mid-rise and high-rise, for when evacuation is difficult.

Fire equipment cannot be used adequately at a number of building because of obstructions. The Department recommends three sides of any building be unobstructed and capable of withstanding the passage and stationary use of high tonnage fire apparatus.

Hanbury said that the city staff at present "encourages" builders to include the additional safety features but cannot legally require measures beyond those in the BOCA Code. He said that a number of builders have accepted the city's recommendations and have voluntarily added the extra safety features. Among these are the Westminster-Canterbury House and the Russell House.

Beach peddlars discussed by council; their privileges could be limited

Two ordinances, and possibly more under consideration in Virginia Beach should narrow the ranks of peddlars considerably.

One would forbid them to use the city rights of way or public places to sell their wares.

The other should keep them off of private property as well by limiting the time a peddler can remain in the same block on any given day to 15 minutes.

Vice Mayor Harold Heischouer suggested that the peddlars be required to have liability insurance and the city staff will consider that possibility, too.

The ordinances respond to complaints from the general public and seafood dealers that the peddlars pose a traffic danger and create unfair competition for traditional store-keepers. Most of the peddlars sell seafood from trucks parked off highways.

Mike Barrett, assistant to the city manager, said that the State Code prevents the city from banning the peddlars but it does permit regulation.

The ordinances will be presented to Council on Feb. 23.

Councilman Clarence A. Holland favored some regulation by the State Health Department, but Barrett said the Health Department claimed no jurisdiction. Because of the transit nature of the public, Barrett pointed out that inspections could only be sporadic.

Barber Shop Quartet association gets council support

The Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartets Singing Association isn't any of the things that would make it eligible to get a raffle permit in Virginia Beach, apparently. But it does have one friend on City Council.

Councilman John A. Baum, whose interests run to drainage and farming mostly, Monday afternoon came out in support of the Society whose name is discouragement enough. He asked the city staff to reconsider the group's application for a raffle permit.

The Police and city attorney Dale Binson recom-

Texaco denied application to build two new stations

Texaco, Inc., which hasn't opened a new service station in Virginia Beach for nine years, has been denied applications which would have enabled it to build stations at two new locations.

Against the advice of city attorney Dale Bimson and recommendations of both the Planning Commission and the Planning Staff, Virginia Beach City Council Monday afternoon by a vote of 6-4 denied the company a conditional use permit for a self-service gas station and car wash at the southeast corner of Great Neck Road and First Colonial Road in the Lynnhaven Borough.

The site is zoned for business and an Exxon Station is located on another corner of the intersection. However, area residents opposed the location of another service station in the area.

Texaco was also denied by a vote of 2-2 an application for a change of zoning from AG-2 Agricultural District to B-2 Community-Business District on a 1.186-acre parcel at the northeast corner of Princess Anne and Blandford Roads in the Princess Anne Borough. Council denied the rezoning as premature. The company had planned, with a conditional use permit, to locate a car wash and service station at the site.

Council's action in this case concurred with the recommendations of the Planning Commission and the Planning Department.

Jim Flippen, attorney representing Texaco, pointed out that Texaco has not opened a new service station here in nine years. As a result of research, he said, Tidewater, and especially Virginia Beach, has been designated as a favored marketing area. He said the company, accordingly, is planning to renovate closed service stations and to develop them in the modern concept-self service operations with a car wash and food store.

The two sites are the first in the company's development program, he said. He said that the stations will have no mechanical repair facilities so that unsightly cars will be eliminated and the stations will be leased to dealers.

In the Princess Anne application, he said that although the Comprehensive Plan calls for residential development at four units per acre, the site is across from the farmers Market, a park and a cemetery. He said that the company did not plan to develop the property for two years.

Councilwoman Reba McClanan said that "one thing that bothers me about Texaco is the closed stations." She said the dealers had been forced to close because Texaco's prices were too high.

She said that one of her biggest concerns was the number of small businesses who have been affected by these closings. She also wanted to know whether a station at the new site would force out other dealers, such as the one at the Courthouse.

Flippen said that the station there will continue to be run as a full-service outlet.

Councilman Dr. Clarence A. Holland said he has also always supported full-service stations, but asked whether the junk cars often in front of them could be controlled.

Flippen said that leases require that stations be kept clean and orderly.

McClanan said, "I like the full-service stations you are closing down...We have to have our cars serviced some time."

Mike Christicello, local Texaco manager, said that the marketing study places the Tidewater market in the same category as Houston, Dallas and Atlanta. He said the company wasn't going to close all full-service stations and make everything self-service.

Councilwoman Meyers Oberndorf said that Princess

LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY MEASURE OF THE MAN

There is a striking similarity between the Man of Galilee and the man from Illinois.

Both had obscure beginnings.

Each came to his own and they received him not.

Neither allowed difficulty to turn him from his central purpose.

Both prepared for responsibility through self-sacrifice and self-denial.

Both loved little children.

Both befriended the weak.

The common people heard each of them gladly.

Neither condescended, yet both loved all men as children of God.

Both hated the things which enslave men.

Each had a passion for justice and truth.

Each took the pains of humanity as his own so that he was "man of sorrows...acquainted with grief."

Neither made room for bitterness.

Each of them knew the loneliness of following the course of the heart rather than the dictates of men.

Both marched resolutely toward death for humanity.

Each of them died to set men free.

VIRGINIA: In the Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach City of Virginia Beach, a municipal corporation, Petitioner,

v. Little Lamkin Jones, deceased, Louise L. Atkeson, Katherine L. Jones, heirs, devisees, successors in title and parties unknown who are made parties by general description of "parties unknown" and 0.019 acre of land, Defendants.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

In this proceeding the Petitioner seeks to acquire by condemnation fee simple title to certain pieces or parcels of land situated in the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia, for the construction and maintenance of that certain public street or highway known as Bonney Road Widening Project which property is shown and described more particularly in the petition and exhibits attached thereto on file in the office of the Clerk of this Court, to which reference is hereby made for a full and accurate description thereof; and for the appointment of commissioners to ascertain just compensation to the owners of any estate or interest in the property to be taken or affected as a result of the taking and use thereof by the Petitioner.

For such purposes the Petitioner will apply to the court, on the 12th day of March, 1981, at the court house thereof, Municipal Center, Virginia Beach, Virginia at 9:15 a.m., or as soon thereafter as counsel may be heard for the appointment of commissioners to ascertain just compensation as aforesaid.

And it appearing by affidavit filed according to law that the following owners are not residents of the State of Virginia, or their names and addresses are not known and that diligence has been used by the Petitioner to ascertain such names and addresses without effect: Louise L. Atkeson, Katherine L. Jones, heirs, devisees, successors in title of Kittie Lamkin Jones, deceased, and parties unknown it is ORDERED that the aforesaid owners do appear within ten (10) days after due publication of this order in the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia, and to do what is necessary to protect their interests; and it is FURTHER ORDERED that if any of the above named owners desire to assert any objection or defense to the taking or damaging of his property or to the jurisdiction of the Court to hear the case and to proceed with the appointment of commissioners he shall file his answer and grounds of defense designating the property in which he claims to be interested, the grounds of any objection or defense to the taking or damaging of his property or to the jurisdiction of the Court to hear the case and to proceed with the appointment of commissioners for the determination of just compensation.

Should any such owner fail to file his answer and grounds of defense as hereinabove provided, such failure shall not preclude the owner from appearing on the date set for the appointment of commissioners nor from presenting evidence as to valuation and damage nor from sharing in the award of just compensation according to his interest therein or otherwise protecting his rights, but such failure shall preclude such owner from any other defense by way of plea in bar, abatement or otherwise.

Paying home fuel bills hurts

Federal funds, easy payment plans and credit cards help ease the pain!

By Greg Goldfarb,
Sun editor

"The Virginia Beach oil company Beaman and Lassiter serves about 700 Virginia Beach households," said Al Beaman, co-owner of Beaman and Lassiter Inc.

Goldfarb

"And of that figure, about 200 to 250 of them pay their household oil heating bills on a monthly payment plan, and not in one lump cash sum. About 25 of my customers receive financial assistance from the Federal Government to pay their home heating fuel bills."

Low temperatures, high costs

The temperatures in Virginia Beach now are low and cold. The price of staying warm is high and Beach businessmen and residents are getting hot over it.

Since 1977 the price of number two home heating oil, (Kerosene is number one and more expensive) has almost tripled. For the average Virginia Beach home owner keeping it warm over the winter can be costly.

"If you figure the average household that I serve in Virginia Beach has 2,000 square foot of space," Beaman said, "the house will use about 1,100 gallons of oil from September to March or April if the house is heated constantly with oil. The average home oil tank holds about 280 gallons. The bill can reach over $1,000 every year and many people would rather pay it over a specified length of time than at one time. Not only would they rather do it that way, but some of them must do it that way."

Beaman's company has been serving Virginia Beach home owners since 1952. Since then, Beaman has seen improved home heating equipment, and increased consumer conservation in Virginia Beach heating oil use.

"Most Virginia Beach residents are updating their home furnaces and boilers," Beaman said. "This is definitely resulting in energy conservation and counter attacks the soaring fuel bills."

"The most important thing a Virginia Beach home owner can do to save money and keep his family warm is insulate their home well."

"We want our customers to get the most heat out of their fuel dollar; and homes built 10 or 20 years ago are not insulated that well and do not employ the most energy efficient heating equipment. I mean, the oil is expensive so let's try to at least keep the heat in the house."

Virginia Beach oil customers may pay Beaman in several ways.

"Our balanced payment plan," explained Beaman, "spreads the oil bill payments out over 11 months. We are able to do this by estimating and projecting how much oil will be used yearly from August to June in a particular household. Between 35 and 40% of our customers use this pay plan. The percentage is increasing every year."

"Our 30 day open account plan allows the customer

to make a payment every 30 days. This way, we keep their oil tank filled automatically. We maintain records in our office which indicate when a tank refill should be made. We have many customers on this plan."

What if you're broke?

What happens if a customer of Beaman and Lassiter doesn't pay their bills?

"Since we have been serving local residents for so many years," Beaman said, "we know many of them fairly well. If it's possible we try to work with the customer and figure out how would be the best way for them to pay their unpaid bill."

"Basically though, Beach residents are pretty good about keeping the oil bills paid. It could be better, and I wish it were. But we are a medium sized company, and try not to get nasty with customers. But we will close the account and stop delivering oil if we have to."

Beaman said oil prices are high and for years Americans have had it easy compared to other parts of the world.

"The price of oil seems high now because it has been so cheap in the past," Beaman explained. "Compared to other European countries the price Americans have had to pay for oil has been very low. We still haven't caught up with the world oil market, and when we do, prices will go out of sight. Look at it this way: The price of crude oil now is $33 to $38 a barrel now, and as it keeps going up where it will stop nobody knows."

Beaman's business has not been hurt by the rising oil prices, but neither has it been helped.

"Business has been rather steady for me," he said. "But I haven't enjoyed the sort of growth that a normal business should; and that I have been hoping for. Look, we have to pay our bills just like anyone else. Financially it is difficult for us to carry any overdue accounts. In order to do it we have to use our own capital to pay our oil suppliers or get loans from the banks. We pay for our product every 10 days or we get no oil. Or in other words, if we don't pay our oil bills the consumer gets no oil."

Charge cards welcomed

Some oil customers are using charge cards for oil payment.

"We have a small number of customers who use their credit cards to pay for the oil," he said, "and we love it. I wish more customers would."

"Four years ago, such a thing was unheard of; and now it's becoming more popular."

Beaman's coal business is not booming. What he does sell is relatively small bagged quantities to be burned in fireplaces.

Beaman predicts someday solar energy may be used to cut home heating bills on a limited basis.

"Solar energy may become vastly popular nationwide," he said, "but I think its primary use will be to heat hot water heaters. It's too expensive to convert an entire home to solar energy for only $100 worth of saving annually."

Fuel loan applications

Apparently the payment plan with oil companies is working. Two out of three local financial loan offices the Sun contacted said hardly any applications had come through for making oil payments.

Mike Hardesty, senior assistant manager, Household Finance Corporation, Princess Anne, reported: "We haven't been any loan applications for escalating fuel costs that I can recall. Most of our customers want money for convenience."

Ron Williams, senior assistant manager, Hilltop HFC, said: "Most people will borrow money to pay their mortgage and light bill before borrowing to pay for their heat. They don't want to be cold, but neither do they want to lose their house or have to live in the dark."

Financial assistance

The Virginia Beach Social Services Department eligibility supervisor Alice Testerman reports that they are serving many lower income Beach residents who request financial assistance from the federal government in paying their heating bills.

"For the 1979-80 year," she said, "we accepted 3,474 cases for fuel financial assistance; 1,066 cases were rejected; and a total of 10,768 Beach residents were assisted with $559,535."

"Thus far to Feb. 9, 1981, we have had 2,212 applications and approved 1,717 of them."

Testerman said who receives assistance and how much they get is determined by several factors.

"The average approved case, or household, has been receiving about $444 annually," she said, "depending on the type of fuel used, the number of people in the house, and the income of the family. But some changes are in the wind, and the figures will be changing soon."

"We will be able to continue to serve residents who need it next year, but how many and how much is yet to be seen."

Harris and maintenance engineer Glenn Atwood stand in the municipal center's central heating and cooling station. The five boilers can generate an average of 2.5 million BTU's daily. The temperatures inside of them range between 200 and 700 degrees.

The cost to heat the complex

"I just grin and bear it" —Harris

By Greg Goldfarb,
Sun editor

Many Virginia Beach home owners hate paying high fuel bills. But imagine if you had to pay the heating bill for the entire City of Virginia Beach Municipal Complex.

How does Virginia Beach building and maintenance administrator T. R. "Tim" Harris cope with the soaring heating costs?

"We just grin and bear it," he said. "Fortunately we don't use as high quality oil as home owners do, and the price we pay for a gallon is less. But we use so much more of it, we spend a small fortune on it."

Harris said the municipal center, including its 14 buildings and over 500,000 total square feet of space, runs its boilers yearly from September to

May. The chart indicates the costs. The correctional center is the biggest guzzler of heating energy.

The correction center is only the second largest building in the complex he said, but it is a heavy energy user because the air in the 86,592 square foot center must constantly be ventilated and circulated since the center houses residents 24 hours a day all year round."

Energy study complete

Harris said the City has recently received the result of a private study to determine in what ways the municipal center complex may be more energy efficient.

"The study has not been formally reviewed or discussed," he said, "but it indicated that with some modifications and improvements the center could save 44 billion British Thermal Units (BTU's) annually. In terms of dollars and cents, this means about $175,000 a year at least."

"The modifications would cost about $1.5 million. But the payback would be pretty soon: Nine years."

Beachers get reduced rates

Beach Lunch eligibility standards set

By Joe Lowenthal
Special to the Sun

The eligibility standards for free and reduced price lunches in Virginia Beach Public Schools have been revised to comply with a federal law (P.L. 96-499), which became effective Dec. 5, 1980.

The revisions eliminate the "unusual hardships" category from a family's income when determining eligibility for the free or reduced price lunch for their children. The category is replaced by a standard deduction of $80 built into the new scale for all families.

Parents whose children are currently receiving free or reduced lunch prices do not have to reapply for determination of their new eligibility. Each Virginia Beach public school will review applications that have been filed during this school year to match the family income to the new scale.

The school will then notify—in writing, at least ten days prior to the effective date of the change—parents of children whose eligibility is changed. Those whose eligibility is changed may then submit a new application if circumstances differ from the earlier application.

The revised family-size and income scale for free and reduced price meals and free milk is as follows:

Family Size	Maximum Family Income for free meals and milk	Family income for reduced price meals
1	$ 5,700	$ 5,701-$ 8,350
2	7,220	7,221- 10,730
3	8,750	8,751- 13,110
4	10,270	10,271- 15,490
5	11,800	11,801- 17,870
6	13,320	13,321- 20,250
7	14,850	14,851- 22,620
8	16,370	16,371- 25,000

At Virginia Wesleyan

"Discovery 81" program slated

"Discovery '81," a residential summer enrichment program for gifted and talented students, fifth through eighth grades, will be offered by Virginia Wesleyan College this summer. The residential program will include three two-week sessions: June 21-July 4, July 5-July 18, and July 19-August 1.

According to Dr. William M. Wilson, dean of the college, "The program is designed to provide enriching and broadening experiences for gifted students as they explore several subject areas within the sciences and humanities." Dean Wilson continues, "This program is an expansion of several successful short-term projects for gifted students with Virginia Wesleyan has offered over a period of three years."

"Creativity in the Humanities and Social Sciences" will be the subject area for fifth and sixth grade students and will involve issue-oriented topics from the subject areas of political science, philosophy, literature, history, and communications.

Seventh and eighth grade students will study "The Sciences and the Environment," in a search for understanding of man's environment and human institutions, exploring topics from the areas of chemistry, biology, psychology, astronomy, and mathematics.

"The residential nature of this program will provide students opportunities for social interaction with peers of similar intellectual abilities and interests and will also allow opportunities for a variety of recreational activities," explains Dean Wilson. Examples of planned activities include: computer games, chess, tennis, softball, soccer, volleyball, student newspaper, movies, and field trips to historical sites, museums, and outdoor areas such as Seashore State Park and the beach.

Nominations to the program must be made by teachers, guidance counselors and principals and must come through the student's school on or before April 1. In order to be nominated, the student must qualify under two of the following categories: achievement test scores or classroom achievement at 2.0 grade levels higher than present grade level; intelligence quotient (I.Q.) of 120 or higher or standard intelligence tests; demonstration of special talent or high level of creativity in at least one area.

Nomination forms are available in the schools throughout Virginia. These forms may also be obtained through Virginia Wesleyan by contacting Dr. William M. Wilson, Dean of the College, Virginia Wesleyan College, Norfolk, VA 23502 (telephone (804) 461-3232, ext. 210).

Hudson, a graduate of U.S.C.

SUNshine Girl Kathy Hudson is a six month Virginia Beach resident, and a graduate of the University of South Carolina.

"Virginia Beach is nothing like Columbia, where the University of South Carolina is located," Kathy, 22, said. "There was very little swimming water around, much less an ocean. The college is in the middle of the state."

Kathy, currently employed as an administrative assistant at Beach health spa, received her degree last year in psychology.

"I'm not really sure what I want to do with it," she said, "I don't know in what direction my future will lead."

Kathy is married to Randy Hudson, a marketing representative for an overnight delivery service. Kathy said her hobbies include ballet, modeling, and playing the piano.

Her musical tastes include everything but Country and Western. Her favorite recording artist is Box Scaggs.

Her plans for the future?

"As it is now," she said, "we will live at the Beach indefinitely. Unless Randy is transferred there would be no reason to leave here."

Beach Business News

The outside of the proposed new Miller and Rhodes

Miller and Rhodes

Largest one in Virginia opens at Beach

Miller & Rhoads will open its 21st and largest branch on March 4, at Lynnhaven Mall in Virginia Beach.

The store, Miller & Rhoads fifth in Tidewater and one of the Mall's largest, will feature 140,000 square feet on two levels at the main entrance to the new mall.

The overall theme and merchandising concept of the Lynnhaven store will make a departure from tradition for the 95-year-old Virginia-based department store chain.

Special highlights

Highlights of the store, which is designed to give greater emphasis to fashion, will include:

- Special, exotic plantings in the store's atrium and along its escalator;
- Greatly-increased use of special-effect groupings of mannequins;
- Displays of special art-ranging from giant Hokaido masks from Kyoto in the atrium to the paintings of Karl Mafin and framed 18th Century Chinese robes among women's dresses; and
- Architectural highlights such as marble first-level aisles and use of floor-to-ceiling glass, natural Teak and other

Special shopping areas of the Lynnhaven store include a "Seven Continents" shop at the mall entrance featuring Batiks, African printed dresses and gauzes from India with Mexican palm furniture and an entire ceiling of Javanese wind chimes.

The "Ocean Pacific" shop in the men's division will feature a tribute to the Beach Boys with surfer mannequins by Pucci and a repertoire of Beach Boys music.

The children's department will be structured around a specially built train with appropriate lights and sounds, fun-house mirrors and large color photographs of children.

The entire juniors department will feature a disco sound system and will be trimmed in orange neon.

Architects are Gilroy, Stauffer, Giombetti, Skibinski and Davies of Clarks Summit, Pa.

Duke Construction Company of Norfolk are general contractors.

Miller & Rhoads—an operating company of Garfinkel, Brooks

Brothers, Miller & Rhoads, Inc.—began in 1885 as a small "drygoods and notions" store in Richmond.

Miller & Rhoads first entered the Tidewater market in the last century shortly after its founding. W. G. Schwartz, a Nor-

That store operated as such until 1927 when Schwartz acquired ownership of the Norfolk store in exchange for his interest in the Richmond store.

In July 1965, Miller & Rhoads returned to the Norfolk area by purchasing the W. G. Schwartz store then located at Southern Shopping Center. Miller & Rhoads continues at that location.

Miller & Rhoads' other Tidewater stores are located at: Pembroke Mall, Virginia Beach; Tower Mall, Portsmouth; Newmarket North, Hampton. A sixth Tidewater store is planned for opening in October at Greenbrier Mall, Chesapeake.

Free personal money management classes set

Virginia Beach sessions will begin on Wednesday, Feb. 18 and end March 18.

The class will be conducted from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, each Wednesday for 3 weeks in VNB's Hilltop Office.

The program will cover financial planning, basic banking services, credit, life insurance, investments, stock market, trusts, wills and estate planning and related subjects in personal money management. In 1980 approximately 400 consumers attended classes in Virginia Beach, Hampton and Norfolk.

There is no charge for the course and consumers may enroll on a first-come, first-serve basis. Reservations are required because of limited seating. Please call 441-4863 to register.

And all the Fixins

Or a hot vegetable. A choice of a big Gratin Baked Potato, fluffy whipped potatoes, or creamy French Fries. And all the Dinner Rolls you can pack away, baked fresh daily by our pastry chef.

Beverages

Dessert to top it off

You're not done yet.
For dessert, how about a Maine-sized slice of our home-made pie?
Or a fancy Parfait, or just a mound of your favorite ice cream, topped with crushed peanuts.

Offered from 11:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m.

We opened the first Valle's restaurant at Portland, Maine back in 1933. Nobody had much money to spend for eating out then, either.

But we figured it this way.

If we bought the best beef and seafood we could lay our hands on, if we prepared everything in our own kitchens, kept our prices small and our helpings big, folks would come. And come back.

We did. They did. And still do.

What a lot of folks don't realize though, is that we still do things the same way at Valle's today. We still buy the best Choice Western Beef and Downeast seafood. We still prepare everything right in our own kitchens including our home-baked dinner rolls and fancy pastries.

We still have the Twin Lobster Special that made us famous. We'll still give you a second helping of salad, if one isn't enough. And we still have a Peanut Butter and Jelly Sandwich for the small fry. Just like always.

To get to the point, we still serve big Maine-sized meals at a reasonable price—an example of which is our Soup to Nuts Sunday Dinner for only $5.95.

How do we do it? Well, Sunday Family Dinner has been a tradition at Valle's since 1933. So we're just that much more experienced when it comes to serving lots of good food at a reasonable price.

How about joining us at Valle's this Sunday?

We'll be looking for you.

Parapsychology overview slated

A "Parapsychology Overview" class reviewing the history and development of parapsychology research, modern brain/mind studies and aspects of psychic phenomena will be taught as part of the Spring session of classes to begin at Poseidia Institute at 1945 Laskin Road in Virginia Beach, the week of Feb. 16.

Institute director, Jean Campbell, will teach the eight-week class which will meet Thursdays at 7:30 p.m.

Levels one and two of the Institute's Psychic Development program: "Introduction to Psychic Development" and "Symbols and the Self" will be taught in eight, 1-5 p.m. Saturday sessions by Lola Murrell beginning February 21. "Symbols and the Self" will also be offered on Mondays at 7:30 p.m.

Other classes in the Poseidia Institute Spring lineup include: "Assertiveness Training", Tuesdays, 7:30 p.m., taught by Fred Mason; "Creativity - A New Way of Seeing", Tuesdays, 7:30 p.m., taught by Jean Campbell; "Reality Creation", 7:30 p.m., taught by David Hamilton; and "Working With the Tarot", Thursdays, 7:30 p.m., also taught by Hamilton. All eight-week classes are $45.

All classes taught at Poseidia Institute are an outgrowth of the Institute's nationally-recognized work in parapsychology research. Incorporated on 1973 as a nonprofit research and education organization, Poseidia is one of a small number of such organizations in the country which trains and researches the work of psychics.

Registration is now being taken for the classes. A pre-registration fee of $15, applicable to class cost, is requested to assure class participation. Further information on the Spring Class Schedule and other programs can be obtained by telephoning the Poseidia Institute office at 425-0715.

cil is an organization of representatives from each of the ten Greek letter sororities on Longwood's campus. The Council acts as a coordinating body for the sororities in an effort to further the Greek ideals, to encourage high scholarship, and school spirit and participation. Among the activities and responsibilities of Panhellenic Council are: disbursing information about sororities and the Greek system, coordinating "rush," sponsoring Greek Week, and participating in social and service projects.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil E. Garber

Lorrie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil E. Garber, was elected treasurer of the Council. An elementary education major at the college, Lorrie is a member of Alpha Sigma Tau social sorority.

Founded in 1839, Longwood became fully coeducational in June of 1976, offering residence hall accommodations and all attendant services to both male and female students. A comprehensive institution, the college offers majors in 26 subject areas, as well as professional training for social work, business, therapeutic recreation, and teaching.

Kempsville High School wins awards

The Kempsville High School delegation recently won top honors in the Old Dominion Model United Nations-1981, held at Old Dominion University's Webb Center. The Kempsville High students represented West Germany during the meetings.

Jeffrey Johnson, Elliot

Kolodny, James Bander, John Skeffington, Robin Stein, and Mark Leonard made the Kempsville-West Germany team which won the "Best Delegation" award.

In addition, Elliot Kolodny was named "best delegate" for his role in the Security Council;

James Bander won another "best delegate" award for his role in the Social, Economic, and Humanitarian Committee; and Mark Leonard won an honorable mention for his role.

Students from 22 high schools in eastern Virginia, including Kempsville, Cox, and First Colonial in Virginia Beach, participated in the three-day event designed as an exercise in world government.

Anne Connerton is the Kempsville High School faculty advisor for the group.

$450,000 building*Beach builders cut ribbon on new TBA facilityBy Lin J. Cooper,
Special to the Sun

Tidewater Builders Association has a brand new $450,000 building.

In a brief ceremony, TBA president Ramon W. Breeden, Jr. recently cut the ribbon to officially open the new headquarters. He was assisted by Virginia Beach Mayor J. Henry McCoy, Portsmouth Mayor J. E. Johansen and Chesapeake Mayor Sidney M. Oman. Mayor Vincent Thomas of Norfolk could not be present.

The headquarters, located at 2117 Smith Avenue in Chesapeake, will serve as the main offices for the 700-member firm trade organization which serves the residential construction industry in southside Hampton Roads.

Also housed with TBA in the 12,000 square foot glass and concrete structure are the Home Owners Warranty (HOW) Corporation, the Manpower Training Program, the Mid-Atlantic Home Builders Trade Exposition, Inc., the Tidewater Apartment Council and the TBA Sales and Marketing Council.

Constructed by C. L. Pineus, Jr., Inc., the building contains two floors; the first floor is available for lease.

TBA, affiliated with the National Association of Home Builders at the Home Builders Association of Virginia, was founded in 1933.

Over 600,000 LP gas water heaters recalled

By Doris Campbell,
Special to the Sun

A nationwide recall program to repair more than 600,000 liquid propane (LP) gas water heaters now is under way.

The water heaters, which may pose an explosion hazard, contain a thermostat manufactured by the White-Rodgers division of Emerson Electric Co., St. Louis, MO.

The water heaters were sold between 1961 and 1980, mainly to rural homeowners. Sears, Roebuck and Co. of Chicago, Ill., the A. O. Smith Corp. of Kankakee, Ill., as well as other manufacturers and retailers, sold the heaters.

A. O. Smith manufactured its own water heaters during this period and sold them through plumbing wholesalers and contractors. Sears water heaters were manufactured by State Industries.

Sears or A. O. Smith LP gas water heaters, containing White-Rodgers thermostats produced between 1964 and 1976, have been involved in 23 explosions involving five deaths and 16 serious injuries to consumers.

It appears that during the life of the water heater, the pilot gas control knob of the thermostat becomes damaged so that the safety valve is stuck in the "open" position, allowing LP gas to escape.

Liquid propane is heavier than air; so, in the event of a leak, LP gas can accumulate near the floor and explode from a variety of ignition sources, including an electric spark.

A total of 56 different brand names of water heaters manufactured by the above-listed companies are being covered by the recall program.

Following negotiations with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, White-Rodgers agreed to mail safety alert notices to all identifiable users of LP gas in the United States, an estimated 15 million households.

Any Virginia homeowner who believes their water heater contains one of the potentially hazardous thermostats is instructed to telephone a toll-free hotline at White-Rodgers headquarters (800-325-9589) to arrange for a replacement with a new, modified thermostat free-of-charge.

Welcome Wagon Club donates dollars for library puppet stage

The Welcome Wagon Club of Virginia Beach, a non-profit service organization, recently donated $275 to the Virginia Beach Public Library to pay for the construction of a puppet stage for use in its Bayside Branch Library.

The stage will permit the library to produce a greater variety of more effectively staged puppetry productions for children. The presentation of the donation was made by Mrs. Penny Jones and Mrs. Debbie Gunia to the library director, Marcy Sims.

Hearty arteries program

The "Hearty Arteries" exercise program sponsored by General Hospital of Virginia Beach has begun its three-month winter session at the London Bridge Baptist Church.

This advanced phase of the Cardiac Rehabilitation Program is medically supervised and designed for those who have had a heart attack, coronary artery by pass surgery, angina, or other significant cardiovascular risk factors.

Those entering the program must obtain permission from their physician and must have a stress test. An individual exercise prescription is followed so that the type and intensity of exercise for each person is of greatest benefit and safety to the individual. The activities are increased to a level that will improve the efficiency of heart, lungs, and blood vessels.

Weekly lectures are held on risk factor control, heart disease signs and symptoms, medications, and diet. The group meets three times a week. For more information, call the hospital's cardiology department, 481-8390 or 481-8202.

Can a Beach wife collect if ex-husband retires?

By Harvey J. Ridinger,
Special to the Sun

Did you know that a divorced Virginia Beach wife may draw social security benefits under certain circumstances if her ex-husband retires, becomes disabled or dies? Or that a widow can get benefits as early as age 60 on her deceased husband's work record, even though the earliest retirement age for workers is age 62?

If you don't know the above facts, chances are you don't know enough about social security to assure you won't lose benefits when you need them, especially if you happen to be a woman. Social security publishes a special booklet, "A Woman's Guide to Social Security", which provides a view of how social security may affect women in their various roles as workers, mothers, or widows.

There are a number of ideas being discussed to make the program more equitable and adequate for women and homemakers. However, women still need to know how the present law affects them if they are to get the most out of their social security protection.

The booklet notes that the woman who works earns social security protection for herself, her children, and her spouse. If she retires, dies, or becomes disabled, her work under social security can mean family benefits to the children even if the

Wife receives benefits

A wife can receive benefits as the mother of minor children who get benefits based on the work record of a retired, deceased, or disabled worker. These benefits to the woman continue until the youngest child turns 18.

At retirement, a woman can retire on her own work record as early as age 62. If she is entitled to a larger benefit on her husband's work record she receives a payment equal to the larger of the benefits based on her own or her spouse's record, but not both.

A widow can receive benefits at age 60 on her deceased husband's record. If she becomes disabled she may, under certain conditions, qualify for disability benefits on her deceased spouse's work as early as age 50. Ordinarily, a widow loses her social security rights when she remarries, but benefits to a widow who remarries at age 60 or older can continue without reduction. And if the new husband gets social security checks, she can take a wife's benefit on his record if it would be larger than her widow's payment and she is 62 or older.

All of the above rules apply equally to widowers. In addition, a divorced wife or husband may qualify for dependent's benefits at 62 if his or her marriage lasted at least 10 years.

The booklet contains other information on how social security affects women. Free copies are available at any social security office.

Room 600, 200 Granby Mall, Norfolk, Virginia, 23510.

Billups

Over 1,000 points last week

Billups shooting for the top

By Gary Edwards,
Special to the Sun

Norman Billups is a senior. It seems hard to believe that four years have passed since this gifted basketball player led Virginia Wesleyan to its first Dixie Conference Championship.

As a freshman, he played the middle like no one before him, and he was named Most Valuable Player of the conference tournament. Immediately, predictions of dominance arose from that freshman season. The big guy from Virginia Beach would be destined for All-Conference teams, maybe even All-American, before his playing days were through.

Now it is four years later, and Norman Billups has yet to make the All-Conference team. It's not that he hasn't had a fine career; he went over 1,000 points just last week; he has over 700 rebounds as a Blue Marlin, there have been no losing seasons. Norman Billups has not consistently risen above the rest, though. Throughout his career there has been a feeling among Marlin followers that a vast amount of untapped potential was waiting to rear its head and devour the opposition.

So it is with a freshman basketball prodigy, people want more and more of you, they are never really satisfied.

determined to go out on top.

"Until now, I really haven't been completely satisfied with the way I've played," says the former Bayside High School standout.

The key words in that statement are "until now". For Norman Billups and those who have watched him for four years see a different player now. They see that potential being released in this senior season, a potential that if not released now, will most likely remain dormant.

"If I don't do it now, I won't ever do it," Billups says. "This senior season means a lot to me. I expect a lot from myself and a lot from the team. I want this to be a year I can always remember."

Norman is making 1981 quite a memorable year. He is currently averaging 12 points, 10 rebounds, and five blocked shots a game—all career highs. Against North Carolina Wesleyan he grabbed a career high 23 rebounds while scoring 17 points. His shot blocking and slam dunking have Wesleyan fans buzzing again. The Marlin currently have a 12-5 overall record.

"It seemed like people were really keying on me my sophomore and junior seasons," Norman says. "Lonnie Blow's (Wesleyan's hot-shooting guard) shooting from the outside this year has opened up things for me."

Bull plays ball at college

Jimmy Butts, a sophomore from Virginia Beach, Va., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Butts Jr., is a member of the 1980-81 Virginia Wesleyan College basketball team.

"Jimmy is one of the hardest workers on the team," says Wesleyan coach Don Forsyth. "He hasn't seen a lot of action this year, but he has a great attitude and his time will come."

The Marlin are currently 12-6 overall and 5-3 in the Dixie Conference.

Jimmy graduated from Kellam High School in 1977.

City of Virginia Beach Development Authority, Plaintiff,

v.
Taxpayers, property owners and citizens of Virginia Beach including non-residents owning property or subject to taxation therein and all other persons interested in or affected in any way by the issuance by the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority of approximately $3,225,000 Industrial Development Revenue Bonds (A. Kemp Rowe Facility) Defendants.

MOTION FOR

JUDGMENT
Plaintiff, the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority (the "Authority"), seeks judicial determination pursuant to Article 6, Chapter 5, Title 15.1, Code of Virginia of 1950, as amended, of the validity of up to $3,225,000 Industrial Development Revenue Bonds (A. Kemp Rowe Facility) (the "Bonds"), to be issued to pay the costs of acquiring and constructing an office building facility (the "Facility"), in the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia, to be leased or sold to A. Kemp Rowe, his assigns, or a Virginia partnership to be formed in which he is a partner, ("Rowe") and states as follows:

1. The Authority was duly created by Chapter 643, 1964 Acts of Assembly 975, as amended, of the Commonwealth of Virginia (the "Act"), and is a political subdivision of the Commonwealth of Virginia. The Authority has been continuously organized and operating under the Act since its creation, and no dissolution proceedings pursuant to the Act have been adopted or instituted.

2. At a meeting called and held on January 13, 1981, the Authority adopted a resolution agreeing to undertake the issuance of the Bonds upon terms and conditions to be mutually agreed upon between the Authority and Rowe, with the Facility to be leased or sold to Rowe upon terms designed to assure payment of the Bonds by Rowe in accordance with their terms and to provide security for the repayment thereof. The proceeds of the Bonds, when issued, will be used to finance the costs of acquiring and constructing the Facility and the issuance of the Bonds.

3. When issued, the Bonds will be valid, legal and binding limited obligations of the Authority, payable solely from the revenues and receipts received from the lease or sale of the Facility to Rowe and other security therefor. The Bonds will not constitute a debt or a pledge of the faith and credit of the Commonwealth of any political subdivision thereof, including the Authority and the City of Virginia Beach, no taxing power or any political subdivision will be pledged to the payment of the Bonds, and the Bonds will not constitute an indebtedness within the meaning of any debt limitation or restriction.

WHEREFORE, the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority, prays that the Court grant a prompt hearing and enter a decree with the least possible delay pursuant to Section 15.1-213 et. seq., including Section 15.1-217 of the Code of Virginia of 1950, as amended, that (1) all proceedings theretofore taken in connection with the authorization or issuance of the Bonds are legal and valid; (2) the Bonds may be issued to finance the Facility; (3) assuming their due authorization, execution and delivery, the Bonds issued for the Facility will be valid, legal and binding limited obligations of the Authority, and (4) such additional matters as may be specially requested by the parties or as the Court may deem proper.

It's Magic

The magic between animals and youngsters is obvious. Attending to the young foal is Audra Floyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Floyd and sister of Robin Adams.

M. R. and Robin Adams explain

Horses provide Loving hobby

By Greg Goldfarb,
Senior Editor

"There's probably between five and 10,000 horse owners-and enthusiasts in Virginia Beach," said Robin Adams.

"You wouldn't think so, but many of the Beach's

Robin is the wife of M. R. Adams, owner of M. R. Adams Quarter Horses, Virginia Beach.

Located on General Booth Boulevard across from the Mount Zion AME Church, the two beach natives, Robin and M. R. are in the business of boarding and caring for horses. The Adams farm totals 105 in acres. Fifty horses are boarded in two barns.

"In our big barn," Robin said, "we have a total of 36 stalls. The smaller barn has five stalls; and we have two broodmare stalls for the newly born horses."

Teachers are number one

Of the horses on the Adams farm, approximately 45 of them belong to Beach residents.

"Most of our boarded horses belong to Beach residents," Robin said.

"They come from all walks of life, with different financial limitations. The occupations of Beach residents who board their horses here include radiologists, dentists, military officers, students, stewardesses, and even a school teacher.

Not of all of the boarders ride their horses either. Some of them groom and care for their horses like it was a small pet, and never take the horse out of the barn."

The variety of horses on the Adams farm includes ponies, thoroughbreds, Arabians, quarter horses, and a Morgan. According to Robin they are all cared for very well.

"There's no doubt about it," she said, "we take excellent care of our horses. Several years ago, in fact, the Virginia Beach 4-H people conducted a survey of stables in the area and ranked ours number one."

Expensive horse

The Adams' have been operating the boarding stables for seven years. The estimated value of the boarded horses is between $75 and $100,000.

Among the noteworthy of the Adams' horses are a Chincoteague Pony and a Red Roan Stallion.

"The Chincoteague pony we have," Robin said, "was the highest priced pony sold at the yearly sale, 20 years ago. I think the price paid for it then was about $145. Now they sell for about $500."

"One of the more expensive horses we have now is a three year old Red Roan Stallion. He is used for breeding and worth about $25,000. That price is relatively inexpensive however, compared to a breeder that I heard was sold four or five years ago for $180,000."

Robin said precious horses are syndicated.

"We just bought into a Pennsylvania syndicate," she said. "That means that a very expensive horse is sold in shares. For example, 10 or 20 horse owners may invest a million dollars in a breeder stallion. Then the offspring are sold and the profits divided among the shareholders."

Popular area for horses

Quarter horses were so named due to their dazzling quickness on the quarter mile race track. Virginia Beach and the entire Tidewater region is the most popular areas for the quarter horses in Virginia.

"Raising and keeping quarter horses is becoming increasingly popular in Virginia Beach and the entire local area," Robin said. "According to the State Quarter Horse Association, the Tidewater area has the highest membership rate compared to any other area in Virginia."

Robin said if she went out tomorrow to buy a new horse, she wouldn't pay less than $5,000 for a good, healthy one. That's the initial price. It also costs a pretty penny to keep it.

"Beach residents can board their horse here for $95 a month," she said. Showhorses are a little more, $120 per month, but they require a little extra attention. Not included in the price are veterinarian bills, shoeing, and grooming."

Councilwoman Henley urges Council must have public trust

By Greg Goldfarb,
Sun editor

Pungo native and Virginia Beach councilwoman Barbara Henley senses the pleasure and pain of rural living. "Living in Pungo is serene and very pleasant," she said from her home at 3513 Charity Neck Road. "It distresses me when conflicts arise between rural residents and outsiders."

As a councilmember Henley has represented the Pungo borough and its 4,000 residents since 1977, when she defeated incumbent Floyd Waterfield and oncomer John Holland. She has pledged herself to curtail troublesome land development in Pungo.

"I thought some new direction was needed on city council," Henley said. "Some council members were allowing too much commercial development and growth in a vastly agricultural area."

Henley, who helped complete the Beach's Comprehensive Land Use Plan, said development in Pungo must be limited for interpersonal, logistical and ethical reasons.

"It's illogical to allow residential land development," she said, "in an agricultural area which does not have the adequate health and sanitary provisions."

Editor's Note: There are three women currently serving on Virginia Beach City Council: Barbara Henley, Meyera Oberndorf, and Reba McClanan. This Sun series will focus on these three women. Next week: Meyera Oberndorf.

"I understand that future development has to increase to a degree, but it must be kept in pace with the public services. People get angry when they come to the country to build a home, only to find out that farm living, or living near a farm is not all blue skies and green pastures. Beach farming is an exact science, and big business."

"Sometimes local residents don't understand that aerial crop spraying, for example, has to be done even if a little of the after spray drifts over a nearby home."

"It's important for the residents of Pungo to have an elected official serving on council...Pungo does not have a very strong and loud voice"—Henley

"Other times new residents don't realize until too late that their homes were built on poorly drained soil, which is sometimes in violation of Beach health ordinances. Road improvements are another thing rural residents don't enjoy often."

Pungo opinions diversified when complaints emerge from Pungo. She understands the importance of the Beach borough system of government to the rural Beach resident.

"It's important for the residents of Pungo to have an elected official serving on city council," she said. "Collectively speaking, Pungo does not have a very strong and loud voice. Its residents are spread out over the countryside and are not at all like a close-knit small suburban community."

"Their opinions are diverse and Pungo residents tend to become more involved in Beach politics only if the particular issue involves them. For example, they really raised their voices when a bridge was proposed for linking False Cape with Knotts Landing.

"Pungo residents are, however, well informed. I talk individually over the telephone all the time. I try to represent the interests of all Pungo residents. To do this, it's important that the city continue its use of the borough system so non-agricultural city council members may better understand the problems of the Virginia Beach farmer."

Henley knows farming

Beach farming has been in Henley's blood even before she was a Henley. Married to Pungo grain farmer G. Winston Henley, she is the daughter of Pungo farmers Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Munden. Henley has one brother, Lloyd Munden, Jr., 31, a Pungo grain farmer. Her sister, Joyce Newman, is also married to a Beach farmer. Henley's mother-in-law, Bernice Henley lives a cross the street from her. Her parents live only a mile down the road.

Henley and Winston have been married 19 years. They have two children: Jeff, 9, and Bruce, 6; both students at Creeds Elementary School, a school not unfamiliar to Henley.

"I remember attending that school myself," she said. "It was built in the early 1940's and is one of the older Beach schools in use today. I love seeing my kids going to school there. I hope my grandchildren can go there also."

Henley recently attended the 20th reunion of her 1960 graduating class of Princess Anne High School.

"Princess Anne is a real good school," Henley said. "Unfortunately, I was not able to participate in as many high school activities as I would have liked to. I was in the future teachers club, a Tri-Hi-y, the national honor society and the Beta Club. But since I lived 20 miles away, it was hard to stay real active."

While in high school, Henley also worked part-time for her father in a general merchandise store he owned on Mount Pleasant Road.

Following high school, Henley attended the Norfolk campus of the College of William and Mary (now Old Dominion University).

"I received my degree in elementary education," Henley said. "After three years of study, I received the degree in Dec., 1963."

Henley married in 1961. She said she and Winston had been friends as small kids.

"I remember waiting at the bus stop with Winston," she said. "Then we dated all through high school, married in college. We lived with my mother for six years until we could afford to build a home of our own."

Henley taught school from Sept., 1964 to July, 1970 at W. T. Cooke Elementary School.

"I really enjoyed teaching," she recalls, "and will probably continue to teach again after by children have grown up."

Friendly council members

Henley is one of three women presently serving as council members. In her estimation, Meyers Oberdorf and Reba McClanahan are more politically oriented than she is.

Henley

"Meyers and Reba both have more political experience than I," she said. "I consider myself pretty much a newcomer. But we all have different areas of expertise. What I don't know about the workings of the General Assembly, they don't know about farming."

"Meyers and I are close friends; possibly closer than Reba and myself. But Reba and I worked on the CCO together. We get along fine and we're all friends."

Regarding issues of local interest, Henley made the following observations:

GAMBLING: "I hope we do not allow gambling in Virginia Beach," she said. "It may provide an additional economic base, but it would also perpetuate potential problems that we don't need."

HIGH-RISES: The Federal Aviation Agency will make decisions concerning Virginia Beach high-rises. I think they will be allowed in certain areas and not allowed in others.

"In light of land value, and the scarcity of property it seems reasonable to assume that future development go up and not out."

Pets can suffer sunburn

Your pet dog can become overheated, suffer from sunstroke or be sunburned. Therefore when in the sun use a sunscreen on your dog also, especially on his nose. The dog can also burn the pads on the bottoms of his feet by walking on hot pavement or sand.

Lack of public trust

But in spite of all the city oriented political issues, Henley counts one problem as the most tragic.

"My big concern, or frustration," she said, "is that the majority of Virginia Beach residents have a lack of trust toward its city council. We see the distrust nationally as well as locally."

"I think the recently passed financial disclosure act will help to gain back some of that lost trust."

"But in general, the city council will need the support of the Virginia Beach residents if we are going to implement the tax cut programs proposed by President Reagan."

Henley said solutions are needed in two special areas:

"We have got to arrive at a long range water solution," she said. "Its imperative to the continuation of the tourist industry as we know it in Virginia Beach."

Secondly, Beach residents must be willing to give up some public services to help the city and national government officials bring inflation and the Federal budget in line.

"Everyone wants controlled spending; that's fine, but the residents must be willing to make sacrifices for it."

Architectural Plans announced for the Beach Museum of Marine Sciences

By Mack Rawls, Museum director
Special to the Sun

A major point in the progress of the Virginia Beach Museum of Marine Sciences will have been this week when architectural models of the facility's building and exhibits are presented for review at the Virginia Beach City Council meeting. Additionally, Virginia Beach Mayor J. Henry McCoy will announce the establishment of three task forces to advise and promote the museum project during its next stages of development.

City planning of the new science museum began in 1977 and outlines a facility which will serve the dual purpose of being an attraction for the tourist population and an exciting educational center for Tidewater residents and students. The exhibit themes of the museum will deal exclusively with the nature and needs of Virginia's marine environment.

The two large architectural models will provide City Council with a visual representation of the 40,000 square foot building as it will appear on its waterfront site near Rudee Inlet and scale examples of the exhibits to be located therein. Such exhibits will include approximately 100,000 gallons of aquarium tanks that will house live marine animals indigenous to Virginia's coastal waters and several visitor participation exhibits dealing with scientific principles and cultural events related to the local marine environment.

The presentation of the models will be made by E. Verner Johnson Associates, a Boston museum planning firm which was employed as consulting architects by the Virginia Beach-Norfolk architectural firm of Shriver and Holland Associates.

The chairmen of the three volunteer task forces who will help the city's museum director, C. Mac Rawls, spearhead efforts to develop and establish the museum will be Dr. William J. Hargis, Director of the Virginia Institute of Marine Science and Chairman of the Exhibits Advisory Task Force; John R. Griffin, former City Councilman and Chairman of the Board of Trustees Task Force; and Curtis R. Catron, insurance executive and Chairman of the Community Involvement Task Force. Mayor McCoy envisions the task forces as a key means of gaining the input of the scientific community and organizing the strong local support which has been voiced for the project.

Construction of the approximately 5.5 million dollar project is scheduled to begin late this year with a completion date of May, 1983. It is projected by the museum's planners that the facility will have an annual visitation rate of 300,000-400,000 persons.

Hospital program gets approval

By Jo Downs,
Special to the Sun

Full approval has been granted the residency training program in family practice at General Hospital of Virginia Beach. The graduate medical education is under the auspices of the First Colonial Family Practice and currently has 12 residents, who will complete the two-year program.

James P. Charlton, M.D., director of the program, says that they received over 200 applications for the six openings this year, due to the national prominence and success of the program.

The residency, under the sponsorship of the Medical College of Virginia and General Hospital of Virginia Beach, has been reviewed by the residency review committee, which is a national committee composed of representatives of the American Academy of Family Physicians, the American Board of Family Practice and the A.M.A.'s Council on Medical Education.

The current residents are: Franklin Boyce, Mark Davy, Andrew Dow, Paul Dunn, Mitchell Miller, Alfred Roberts, Peyton Roberts, Michael Schorr, Clayton Smith, John Snyder, Dennis Thomas and George Wong.

SUNshine Girl

Zimmerman is a six year Beach resident

Zimmerman runs for miles

"I'm living a good life now," said SUNshine Girl Gigi Zimmerman.

"I enjoy my work and I enjoy living in Virginia Beach. I don't plan to move away anytime soon."

A six year Beach resident, Zimmerman, 31, is a guidance counselor at the Frederick campus of Tidewater Community College.

She has earned two degrees from Wake Forest University, Winston-Salem, N.C.: A bachelor's degree in psychology and a master's degree in counseling.

Martinsburg High

Zimmerman was born in Martinsburg, West Virginia and graduated from Martinsburg High School.

She enjoys dining and dancing at Worrell Brothers, Pascal's and Isle of Capri.

Her hobbies include dancing, modeling, attending theatrical events and running.

"I've been running four miles a day," she said, "for years and years now. I've worked out in gymnasiums for the last 11 to 12 years."

Why does she like the Beach?

"I like the sand, the surf, and the sun," she said.

Servant to sing at VWC

Virginia Wesleyan College has announced the scheduling of a lyric soprano for the first concert in the Dougherty Visiting Artist Series this semester. Kathryn Servant, a former resident of Virginia Beach, will appear in concert at 8:15 p.m. on Tuesday, March 3, in the science auditorium. The concert is free and open to the public, but reservations should be made by calling the college at 461-3232.

Servant, a graduate of Bayside High School, studied music at Virginia Commonwealth University and at Hart College of Music of the University of Hartford in Connecticut. In her junior and senior years of high school she sang in musicals including "The King and I," "The Sound of Music," and "The Boy-frend." During her college years Servant appeared in "The Common Glory" in Williamsburg and toured Italy with the VCU Chorus. While living in Hartford she was a winner in the Southern Connecticut Young Artists' Competition.

Among her operatic roles, Servant has sung Micaela in "Carmen," Donna Elvira in "Don Giovanni," and Rosalinda in "Die Fledermaus." She is presently studying with Emmie Joseph in New York City. Locally she has studied with Faye

Servant

Whitlock in Virginia Beach and with Hope Montoni and L. Wayne Batty in Richmond.

Servant is married to Gregory Servant who is now with the Zurich Opera in Switzerland, and they have a two-year old daughter, Emily.

Coronary Risk Factor Screening Clinic a success

By Barbara Neumann
Special to the Sun

"I'm glad to learn more about my heart" was one of the comments overheard at the coronary risk factor screening last Sunday at General Hospital of Virginia Beach. Three hundred and thirty-six people participated in the program to identify those who may be at risk for coronary artery disease.

The screening, which was open from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m., consisted of nine stations for participants to complete. Individuals were weighed and measured, had their blood pressure taken and rode an ergometer bike for 2 minutes to test for fitness. They also had their blood tested for cholesterol, triglycerides and blood sugars. To further understand coronary risk factors, they viewed a film that alerted them to factors that they could control - smoking, being overweight, diet, exercise and stress.

Results of the screening tests will be mailed to individual participants and to the physicians they had identified. A participant may then follow-up any abnormal results by seeing his family physician so that he and the physician can work on changing health habits that can affect coronary risk factors.

The program is offered as a community service by General Hospital of Virginia Beach and is assisted by the following organizations: Virginia Beach Council of Rescue Squads, Virginia Beach Chapter of the American Association of Medical Assistants and Virginia Beach Public Health Nurses.

Mrs. Susan Petron R.N., Nursing Supervisor at General Hospital of Virginia Beach, takes the blood pressure of Fred V. Watkins, Jr. at the Coronary Risk Factor Screening on February 15, 1981

At General Hospital of Virginia Beach, Jeanne C. Brady is weighed by staff member Rhonda Wright at the Coronary Risk Factor Screening on February 15, 1981

Beach delegate reports

Tax cuts, agricultural activities, car pooling among items passed by General Assembly before session ended

By Glenn B. McClanan,
Member, Virginia
House of Delegates,
Special to the Sun

There is a consensus among many of our state legislators that the citizens of Virginia want and are entitled to relief from increasingly burdensome government regulation and taxation. Many of the proposals which have been approved by this year's General Assembly reflect this feeling. The House of Delegates has now passed measures which would reduce the sales tax, eliminate sales tax on prescription drugs and place a constitutional limitation on State Government spending.

This week the House has passed a bill which if enacted would completely restructure the Virginia State Income Tax laws. This proposal would eliminate itemized deductions and allow each person a $4,500 deduction. Taxable income would then be taxed at a flat rate of 4.75%. Taxpayer with incomes of less than $30,000 could expect to realize some tax savings, but the biggest apparent advantage of this change would be its simplicity since it would eliminate most of the State Income Tax form.

Also passed this week was a measure designed to achieve cost savings by limiting the non-agricultural activities of the Virginia Tech Extension Service.

A measure which I co-sponsored that will remove legal impediments to car and van pooling from Virginia law has been passed by the House and the Senate.

Two bills to amend the Virginia Beach City Charter which I sponsored at the request of City Council and which were approved earlier by the House of Delegates have now been passed by the State Senate.

The first allows the City additional flexibility in the time when it may sell bonds. This will allow the City to take advantage of favorable bond markets, and in this time of sky-high interest rates this could save the City millions of dollars. You can be very sure that I retained the limitation on the amount that the City may borrow without a referendum.

The second bill directs the Circuit Court to call an advisory referendum on petition of 25 percent of those persons voting in the previous election. This will allow voters to call for an advisory referendum directly on petition without obtaining the approval of City Council.

Should fence in area

Lake contains variety of solid waste

By Lee Cahill,
Sun city council correspondent

A 26-acre lake, which provided waterfront living for residents of Homestead, Cedar Hill and Newlight in Kempsville, overnight has become a huge landfill.

Residents who have inspected the fill say they have found plastic, bottles, paper, and tires, and according to city manager George L. Hanbury it could include any kind of solid fill—concrete, rip rap and rubble, and tree stumps.

It's all legal.

As the city's ordinance reads, a fill permit does not require action by City Council, but is granted administratively on the presentation of a drawing, site plan and performance bond. No notice to adjacent property owners is required.

The permit can only be issued to the owner of the property, and in this case it is developer W. W. Reasor. Zoning of the borrow pit site is R-4, R-5, and R-6 residential.

Councilman John A. Baum noted, "I wouldn't want to live on it," because of the unreliable fill.

Hanbury said the borrow pit will take 10 years to fill. He said there have been drownings in the lake and some respects such borrow pits are pure nuisances, but as to other, the adjacent residents consider the lakes preferred waterfront property.

Councilman Reid Ervin said that the ordinance should be reviewed, that the pit should be fenced in and that the odor could get unpleasant.

Residents, who attended the informal session of Council Monday evening, said that some of them had cared for the 50 foot easement surrounding the lake and built bulkheads. They have been doing this for 14 years.

Councilwoman Meyers Oberndorf, who brought up the matter, recommended the city consider changes requiring notification of the adjacent landowner, establishing a conditional use permit procedure to require a public hearing, and making sure that the fill material used does not create another love canal. She said the people, when they bought their homes, were told that they would be living on a lake.

No 55 mph
for Earth!

The earth spins on its axis at the rate of 700 miles per hour.

Councilman Reid Ervin was concerned that some types of material used as fill could threaten the city's developing shallow well system. "You can dump all kinds of chemical solvents, poisoning all the water, with indiscriminate filling," he said.

Hanbury raised another problem. He said that the area will be inadequate for construction and the owners "will come in and ask if we want to buy a park."

Ervin suggested issuing no more permits. He said that he didn't want to see the potential 10 to 14 gallons of water a day the city expects to get from its wells to be "messed up with something like this."

As a direct offshoot of the discussion on the Kempsville borrow pit, Council later continued for 60 days an application for a conditional use permit for a borrow pit in Princess Anne Borough.

The Planning Commission had recommended ap-

I am telling you, I have been so self-conscious of my appearance; that for the past two years I particularly I have resorted toward doing something conservatively about it. Frankly there is virtually no self gains in growing old; but so much to gain by maintaining a youthful appearance as long as one can. It makes me proud to be the age of 44, yet many times I am asked identification as proof of my age.

I am telling you that my conservation objectives of longevity has cost me dearly. Now that I have gained the facts that for so long has evaded me, I know that relatively speaking, it is not expensive at all to maintain my body; it is dedication....

proval of the use permit requested by Baillio Sand Company, Inc. on a 102.96 acre parcel on the west side of Princess Anne Road, south of Sandbridge Road. However, the Comprehensive Plan indicates the site should be retained as prime agricultural land.

Ervin said that Council was concerned about what effects the pit would have on the groundwater.

Councilman John A. Baum said that the traffic which would be created by the borrow pit was another concern.

R. L. Simpson Jr., attorney for Baillio, said the pit would take five years to excavate.

Ervin said the city needed an expert to look at the effects on groundwater.

Simpson said his client would agree to the stipulation that the pit would not be filled.

Councilwoman Barbara Henley said that with the large borrow pit to the north the drainage problems would be compounded.

Dwight Southern, of Princess Anne, said that he objected because it would be next to a very large borrow pit about 300 to 400 yards away. He was concerned about his own well water and pointed out that there were no plans for city water in the area. He said most of the wells are shallow and he was concerned that the water level would drop so that new wells and pumps would be required. With two borrow pits, he said, there was no legal recourse because there is no way to prove which of the pits would be affecting the water supply.

Joe Burroughs, of Seaboard Road, said he was opposed when the Capricorn Corporation, the other pit owner, received its permit.

He said that he was worried about possible drainage through his property.

Councilwoman Raba McClanahan moved that the permit be denied, but the substitute motion to defer the application for 60 days passed by a vote of 7-3. Councilman Donald Magrick was absent. McClanahan, Baum and Oberndorf voted against deferral.

The delay will give the city time to revamp the borrow pit ordinances so that property owners will be notified of fill applications and the agent ascertaining the safety of the operation will be determined. The ordinance, Oberndorf said, "should be shored up so people don't find all garbage being dumped into their lake.

The planning Commission will also be involved in the study.

Council approves taxi rate change

The Virginia Beach City Council has recently approved a new ordinance regarding charges for taxicabs. The ordinance drops the meter fare-and-a-half charge for taxicabs which cross city lines and adds a $.50 gasoline surcharge to each trip in order to compensate taxicab owners for this loss of revenue.

The effect of the ordinance is an increase in the initial rate for the first 1/8 mile from $1 to $1.50. This ordinance is currently in effect.

Everyone happy at Boat Show

"The dealers and exhibitors at this year's show have been very pleased," said Mid Atlantic Sports and Boat Show director John Taylor.

"The Pavilion facility allows plenty of room for the many spectators, as well as easy loading and unloading for the dealers. The general consensus of opinion is that we'll be back here again next year. The Pavilion really lends itself to thinking of show."

The sports and boat show, which had been held in SCOPE, will host over 30,000 people this year according to Taylor.

Co-sponsored by the Virginia Pilot and Ledger Star newspapers, and the Norfolk Chapter of the Isaac Walton League, the show will continue through Sunday, March 1. Featured at the show are numerous water, and water related equipment and vehicles.

JUDGMENT

Plaintiff, The City of Virginia Beach Development Authority (the "Authority"), seeks "judicial determination pursuant to Article 6, Chapter 5, Title 15.1, Code of Virginia of 1950, as amended, of the validity of up to $3,225,000 Industrial Development Revenue Bonds (A. Kemp Rowe Facility) (the "Bonds"), to be issued to pay the costs of acquiring and constructing an office building facility (the "Building"), in the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia, to be leased or sold to A. Kemp Rowe, his assigns, or a Virginia partnership to be formed in which he is a partner, ("Rowe") and states as follows:

1. The Authority was duly created by Chapter 643, 1964 Acts of Assembly 975, as amended, of the Commonwealth of Virginia (the "Act"), and is a political subdivision of the Commonwealth of Virginia. The Authority has been continuously organized and operating under the Act since its creation, and no dissolution, proceedings pursuant to the Act have been adopted or instituted.

2. At a meeting called and held on January 13, 1981, the Authority adopted a resolution agreeing to undertake the issuance of the Bonds upon terms and conditions to be mutually agreed upon between the Authority and Rowe, with the Facility to be leased or sold to Rowe upon terms designed to assure payment of the Bonds by Rowe in accordance with their terms and to provide security for the repayment thereof. The proceeds of the Bonds, when issued, will be used to finance the costs of acquiring and constructing the Facility and the issuance of the Bonds.

3. When issued, the Bonds will be valid, legal and binding limited obligations of the Authority, payable solely from the revenues and receipts received from the lease or sale of the Facility to Rowe and other security therefor. The Bonds will not constitute a debt or a pledge of the faith and credit of the Commonwealth of any political subdivision thereof, including the Authority and the City of Virginia Beach, no taxing power or any political subdivision will be pledged to the payment of the Bonds, and the Bonds will not constitute an indebtedness within the meaning of any debt limitation or restriction.

WHEREFORE, the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority, prays that the Court grant a prompt hearing and enter a decree with the least possible delay pursuant to Section 15.1-219 et. seq., including Section 15.1-217 of the Code of Virginia of 1950, as amended, that (1) all proceedings theretofore taken in connection with the authorization or issuance of the Bonds are legal and valid; (2) the Bonds may be issued to finance the Facility; (3) assuming their due authorization, execution and delivery, the Bonds issued for the Facility will be valid, legal and binding limited obligations of the Authority, and (4) such additional matters as may be specially requested by the parties or as the Court may deem meet.

Haynes Haynes Haynes

"More" can mean bigger, better, greater or even nicer or easier. At Haynes, the largest furniture showroom on the East Coast, we fit every category ... 5 acres of furniture, carpet and accessories, each in individual room settings to help you visualize the look in your home. And most items are in stock, ready to go.

But there's more than a tremendous selection ... a free nursery for your young ones, coffee shop to think over your purchase and even free decorating service to ensure you're happy with your selection.

What does Haynes have that's less? Price.

Virginia Beach Showroom: 5324 Va. Beach Boulevard, Daily 10 am to 9:30 pm; Hampton Showroom: 4113 W. Mercury Boulevard, Daily 12 noon to 9:30 pm, Saturday 10 am to 9:30 pm.
